

SEE CAPTURE OF VILLA AT EARLY DATE

ARMY MEN SAY THAT AMERICAN CAVALRY WILL TAKE BANDIT WITHIN A FEW DAYS.

WOUND BALKS FLIGHT

Fugitive Believed to Have Taken Refuge in Some Hiding Place in Continental Divide.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
El Paso, April 1.—The capture of Francisco Villa by the flying squadrons of American cavalry searching the Sierra Madre mountains, today is believed by army officers at Fort Bliss to be only a matter of days.
His forces scattered into small bands after their smashing defeat by Colonel Dodd and his cavalrymen on March 29, Villa is reported to have sought safety in hiding in some recess of the continental divide. The bandit's injured leg, said to have been broken by a gunshot wound or a fall from his horse, will doubtless prevent him from making any long flight over rugged mountain trails.
That Villa was already captured and being brought back to the army base at Casas Grandes, was a report heard here today, but it was not credited to official quarters.
Mexican Consul Andres Garcia had no word of any further engagements between American troops and Villa forces. General Garcia went to Juarez today in the day to be in immediate touch with Mexican telegraph lines.
While the hunt is on, General Pershing, it is said, will continue his operations against the roaming bands of Villa to prevent their concentration and to destroy them wherever found.
General Gobel, commanding the army base, is meanwhile moving forward supplies to the front by way of Columbus, that the American army may be prepared for a possible protracted campaign.

Await Further News

San Antonio, April 1.—General Pershing and his staff hastily examined every dispatch from Mexico and the border today hoping that in one would come the accounts of another victory over Villa troops, or perhaps news of the capture or death of the bandit himself.
Unofficially it was reported that a bullet has disabled Villa and it had passed through the hands of his army surgeons say that if the reports were true, it would be practically impossible for Villa to endure the pain incident to transportation over any great distance.
Official messages added nothing to the information already at headquarters either as to the report Villa was injured or concerning the battle between the five hundred Mexicans and Colonel Dodd's cavalry.
It was said at headquarters, that just before Colonel Dodd began his fifty-mile dash to Guerrero, he was at Bachajon, not more than twenty-five miles away. From Bachajon a trail extends in a southerly direction to Malpais, from where an overland trail extends to Guerrero, and west to Malpais. It was over this roundabout route that he lead his cavalry in the opinion of army officers here, in order to attack Guerrero from the rear, making more certain his plan for the capture of the bandit. The distance from Bachajon to Guerrero, via Malpais, is fifty-five miles.
Report of Capture.
El Paso, April 1.—A Chihuahua dispatch from Mexican officials in Juarez this afternoon states there is a report in Chihuahua that Villa has been captured in Minaca. Efforts to confirm the report here were without result.

TELL OF COLUMBUS RAID BY VILLA ARMY

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clappert of Milton Escaped in Wild Auto Ride From Border City.
Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Clappert of Milton, who were in Janesville this morning, told of the experience of their daughter, Mrs. D. E. Clappert, who was with General "Pancho" Villa on Columbus, New Mexico, that caused the punitive expedition of the United States troops into Mexico. Mr. Frost, according to Mrs. Clappert, was engaged in the furniture and hardware business in Columbus, and was the only merchant in the little border town to escape with his life.
Mrs. Clappert said that when she heard from her daughter, she suffered from the terrible shock and truth from the raid so greatly that she was not able to write a very complete account of the raid. She told that the soldiers of the regiment stationed there were slain by the Villa men, and this fact enabled them to go into the town and start their depredations without any unexpected trouble. Part of the store of Mr. Frost was burned, said Mrs. Clappert.
During the fight my daughter's husband was wounded twice, but was able to escape. She said that her daughter, who was with the raid, was taken to a hospital. He drove the machine with two severe gun wounds and in racing out of Columbus the auto was riddled with bullets, but fortunately none struck the occupants. They then returned to Columbus, Mr. Frost having recovered from his wounds, and report that business is booming because of the daring raid drawn to the town by the attraction.

FINED FOR TRAPPING FUR ANIMALS OUT OF SEASON

Game Commissioners Mason and Sampson arrested a trapper named Peter Nelson at Lake Koshkonong for violating the game laws, trapping out of season. Thirty-eight birds were confiscated by the game officials. Nelson was taken before the justice of the peace at Stoughton and fined twenty-five dollars and costs.

NEW VOTING RECORD EXPECTED TUESDAY

Interest in Election Gives Indication That New Mark May Be Set At Polls Tuesday.

Voters in Janesville are pondering if the record vote of 3942 will be bettered at the general election Tuesday, when the electors go to the polls to elect a city, councilman, justice of peace, supervisors and school commissioners. Voting will be done by ballot as it was decided not to use the machines, and the polling places in the five wards will be the same as at the primary.
Interest in the race between Roy M. Cummings, present commissioner and John J. Sheridan, for the office of councilman, is thoroughly aroused and the campaign has been most spirited during the past week. Friday afternoon Sheridan submitted the following list as his challengers at the polls: first ward, Patrick Mulgoin, Edward Badger, second ward, William Keating and Richard Casey; third ward, Albert Kienow, Frank Fisher; fourth ward, Ed. Gokey and Thomas Spohn; fifth ward, Thomas Mulgoin, Edward Badger and Otto Montanye. The challengers of Councilman Cummings will be announced on Monday as the list had not been complete this afternoon.
That the vote at the primary will be beaten, under favorable conditions, is conceded. A vote of three thousand is expected and there are many wagers made that a new polling place will be made. The city as a whole will also vote for justice of peace and school commissioner at large. Gardner Kalvelage and J. T. Hooper are the lone candidates for these two offices. Separate ballots have been obtained for women voters to vote for school commissioners.
In the first ward the other candidates are, supervisor, George Woodruff, and constable, George H. Palmer. Second ward, supervisor, Richard Anderson; school commissioner, P. C. Grant and constable, John J. Comstock; third ward, supervisor, E. D. McGowan and constable, Albert McGowan. In the fourth ward there is a contest for supervisor between J. Denning and Emil Pautz. The candidates for school commissioner is William Hemming and for constable, Frank M. Bryant. In the fifth James C. Morris is running for supervisor and W. E. Dulin for constable.

DEER TO BE BOUGHT FOR GAME RESERVE

Ducks and Swans Will Appear on River Between Down Town Bridges This Summer.

Rock river between the Court and Milwaukee street bridges is going to be a small game reserve if the preservation of the Rod and Gun club material for the Chicago swans, a pair of English swans, owned by H. R. Nelson, and his eleven wild ducks will be swimming peacefully and serenely along the banks of the Rock river as soon as the flood waters will prove the appearance of the river with its disgraced banks it would be sincerely appreciated by the citizens of Janesville.
It was reported at the meeting of the Rod and Gun club held at the city hall last evening, that a pair of Chinese swan would be released on the river as soon as the flood waters go down to the normal height of the stream. There were many members of the club present and important transactions were made during the business session.
The report of the bird committee was that forty ring neck pheasants were released on the state reserve north of Janesville and that the shipment was satisfactory to the officials in every respect. The pair of Chinese swan are expected in the city shortly.
The English swan are smaller than the English variety but are more hardy and able to stand the climate of Wisconsin.
It was voted that a pair of deer, venison and antlers from the state conservation commission be placed on the reserve.
The report of the auditing committee was that the club last evening, had received the sum of $100.00 from those present. The receipts from May 1st, 1914, to March 9th, 1916, were $611.40, the disbursements, $508.73, leaving a balance of $102.67.
The committee noted in their report that the club's accounts accurately recorded. Many new members have been received during the past week, boosting the membership to a total number that the club sees a roster of a thousand members within a short space of time.

HIGH SCHOOL USE TO OSHKOSH NORMAL

Board of Education Permits Normal Authorities Class Room Space in New Building.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Oshkosh, April 1.—At a meeting of the board of education last night, it was decided to grant the request of the officials of the Oshkosh normal school to conduct a summer school for the normal, next summer in the new high school, pending rebuilding of the normal, which was recently burned.
The board will also consider plans whereby the normal can use the high school building for half day sessions during the coming year while rebuilding is in progress.
Another matter taken up was the request of the Oshkosh Teachers' association in which the teachers asked for a new schedule of salaries higher than present ones. An effort was made to show the high cost of living and the reason for the demand for more wages.

MILK WAR EFFECT FELT BY CHICAGO

Already City Facing Famine as Result of Strike Between Producer and Distributor.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, April 1.—Possibility of shortage in its milk supply confronted Chicago today with the announcement that hostilities had broken out between milk producers and distributors of the district.
Dairy plants in suburban towns, it was reported, had been picketed and the owners would insist upon higher prices for their product.
At Marengo it was said, farmers over-turned milk wagons of two dairymen, who were taking milk to a distributing company.

OVER SCORE MEET DEATH IN AIR RAID

TWENTY-EIGHT MEET DEATH IN NIGHT ATTACK ON BRITISH COAST BY GERMAN AIRSHIPS.

ONE ZEPPELIN TAKEN

British Patrol Boat Takes Disabled Airship Which Subsequently Sank—Members of Crew Prisoners.

London, April 1.—It is officially announced that one of the Zeppelins that raided the eastern counties last night came down off the mouth of the Thames and was captured by a British patrol boat. The official statement follows:
"During the night a damaged Zeppelin was observed to come down off the Thames estuary. On being approached by one of our patrol vessels she surrendered. The crew was taken off her and she was taken in tow, but she subsequently broke up and sank.
"A one town eleven bombs were dropped by a Zeppelin without causing any loss of life or property."
Twenty-eight Killed.
London, April 1.—Twenty-eight persons were killed and forty-four injured in last night's air raid, according to official figures given out today.
An eye witness of a Zeppelin flight and its encounter with anti-aircraft guns described the scene as most thrilling one. The Zeppelin, which appeared to be of larger type than that of previous visitors, flew at a considerable height. The glitter of its surface as it passed overhead attracted the attention of hundreds of persons who came out of doors to gaze upward, despite the instructions given to remain under cover.
The searchlight that played on the raider illuminated it effectively and shells from guns that opened fire could be seen bursting all around it. One Zeppelin was seen to be hit and the Zeppelin thereupon being seen to turn about and proceed toward the coast, apparently damaged.
Dispatches from points on southern coast and northern coasts and in the eastern counties, indicates that last night's Zeppelin raid, or raids—for there were apparently separate ventures north and south—were the most extensive yet undertaken. The identity of the wrecked aeroplane was disclosed in the following official statement:
"Shells hit Zeppelin.

HOME COMING FEATURE DURING WEEK OF FAIR

JANESVILLE FAIR ASSOCIATION AND JANESVILLE COMMER-CIAL CLUB HAVE PLANS FOR CELEBRATION.

WOULD DRAW CROWDS

Matter Has Been Given Consideration and Expectations Are It Will Go Through.

If present propositions under consideration mature to the extent of reality, Janesville during the coming summer months will be the scene of great interest for thousands of people from southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois. Along with the proposal to once again stage the historic and good old fashioned Nonsuch Bros. circus and relocation of the Janesville Fair to the Fourth of July, comes the announcement that Janesville is going to have a homecoming for its wandering sons and daughters during the week of the Janesville fair, in August.

The idea was originally suggested by the Janesville Fair association.
The proposition was put up to the Janesville Commercial club and an informal vote practically assures that the Commercial club will work in cooperation with the fair board to make the event a success.

Bank and institutions at the fair are to be used in exhibitions which are to be held down town. The plans are still in embryo, but are being considered with interest both by the Commercial club and the fair board.

Frank E. Croak, treasurer, and Harry O. Nowlan, secretary, of the park association were instructed at the meeting to purchase at once the tickets for the fair, this fall. The early move is made so as to be able to start the ticket sale campaign as early as the first of May. Prices are to be awarded for the greatest ticket sale by any bank, or by any fraternal or child or by any fraternal or other organization or society. Two hundred dollars in awards have already been appropriated by the board for this purpose. It will continue until August.

The premium lists are in the hands of the printer and practically all the type matter with the exception of the advertisement have been set up.
Members of the committee in charge of this work today announced that the books would be ready for distribution by May 1.

A contract has been signed with the Bower City Band, and this organization will appear on three days. They have also promised an evening concert in the downtown business district in connection with the homecoming celebration. The board plans two bands for every day, one in the grandstand during the racing matinees and the other on a stand to be built near Floral Hall.

MAY HOLD TWO JURY TRIALS NEXT WEEK

Vogel and Bergdoll Cases Slated for Trial in Municipal Court Next Week.

Important cases are to be brought before the municipal court next week and it is thought likely that there will be at least two jury trials over cases now pending. There are half a dozen state cases to be tried, but the prosecutions under the city ordinance against
S. G. Dunwiddle were very numberous during the last three weeks.

Two cases are set for the seventh.
Friday. The case against Fred Berg-doll, charged with selling liquor on primary election day, is set for trial and also the case against Mable Griffen Burnett, charged with larceny.
One of these cases may be postponed.
A new charge will probably be made against Mrs. Burnett, as her husband on Friday received a five months' sentence for the theft which Mable is also charged with.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, April 1.—The public school benefit given last evening at the Strand theater was a very unique affair and was attended by a crowded house, many not being able to find seats. The play was entitled, "The Quest of Happiness," patterned after "The Bluebird." It was under the supervision of Miss Addo Reed. Miss Winifred Cahill and Miss Edna Mumford, grade teachers, assisted by Miss Pearl Morse and Mrs. Harry Fowler. Leading parts were taken by Katherine Kinzer, who took the part of Trilby, and showed wonderful talent on the stage. It is remarkable how a girl of her age could remember the lengthy parts.

Miss Gladys Gustafson took the part of The Neighbor. Berlingo and Evelyn Erickson played Obed and the others did unusually well and much credit is given to the teachers and assistants who drilled them. The costumes were beautiful. The music was furnished by the high school orchestra, under the direction of Miss Marion Lawson, and Miss Agnes Garness was piano accompanist for the evening. A chorus of mothers, consisting of eight high school girls, was sung beautifully.

James Golden died at his home on the east side on Friday. He was fifty-three years of age and a resident of this city for many years. The deceased made several trips to Rochester, Minn., last fall, in hopes of recovering his health. The funeral was held from St. Patrick's church this morning with burial at Calvary cemetery.

The Misses Mary and Sarah Rosencrantz go today to make their home at the Milwaukee Home for the Aged.
They recently sold their home to H.
D. Winnie, who expects to occupy the same soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reed, who are now living at Oak Hill, are the parents of a second daughter since Tuesday.

Miss Ethel Butler of Fox Lake is spending the week with her parents.
T. S. Knight leaves today to spend the summer at Delavan lake.

PERSHING'S LINE AS LONG AS SHERMAN'S

Expeditionary Force in Mexico in Fact is Farther From Base of Supplies Than Civil War Generals.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Proceeding to Field Headquarters, Colombia, Dubon, Chihuahua, Mexico, March 29, by airplane to Chihuahua, N. M., March 31. The line of communications maintained by Sherman in his march to the sea has been exceeded already in the line stretched by the American troops southward into Mexico. This line today extends 200 miles in length, starting out from the line and that is precisely what Brigadier General J. D. Pershing is prepared to do in any case when the final dash after Villa is made.

The line of this dash is uncertain but indications today pointed strongly to a dash unexpected a week ago. American troops without a railroad have covered a line directly into Villa's hiding places, all in less than two weeks. At the head of this line are columns guarding avenues which Villa might try to use for doubling on his trail while at the front is a body of men whose identity the Mexicans can hardly thus far, but whose exploits are daily filtering back along the long communication line filling the troops pressing forward from the rear station with anticipation and maintaining the most gallant of American traditions.

In hard campaigning about two dozen of the vanguard troops have dropped from the ranks for hospital treatment. There is not enough illness, however, to effect any part of original strength of pursuing units. Meanwhile the others are said to have been hardened to their work as they advanced. If the line of communication heads up under the strain of cross country transportation problems, it appears Villa will be hunted through the desert with no apprehension that the line will fail.

CANADIAN SOLDIERS WILL BE FED ON FISH RATIONS TO IMPROVE THEIR HEALTH

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, April 1.—Canada's Fishery General is the title of Major Leslie Green, who has arrived in England on a special mission from the Canadian Minister of Militia, to discuss the entire fish supply of the Canadian troops. The appointment is to be without precedent in the history of warfare and the introduction of fish into the Canadian ration.

Major Green is said to have interviewed the Dominion authorities with a view to carrying out his scheme. He had brought the fish two thousand miles, so the story is told here, and so impressed the Canadian officials that they lost no time in laying the plans for carrying out his scheme.

Green, who is but twenty-eight years old, has caught fish nearly all his life in the waters of the Great Lakes. He arrived here with forty tons and before leaving organized the business so that the same amount will arrive each week, all ready for cooking. Much of the fish will come from Canadian waters of the Great Lakes.

Major Green has engaged many Indians in the smaller northern Canadian lakes to assist in the catching of sufficient fish to keep the Canadian troops in England and on the continent well supplied for the duration of the war.

GERMANY MAY ACQUIRE COPYRIGHTS AFTER THEIR EXPIRATION FOR REVENUE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Berlin, April 1.—"Why could not the state take over all copyrights upon their expiration—at the end of thirty years, and thus acquire a considerable new source of revenue?" asks Alfred Schattmann, a well known German composer, in the current number of the Allgemeine Musikzeitung. He would have the state pay a reasonable percentage of the profits to the immediate heirs so long as any survive, and in proper cases, also to the publisher with any vested rights. Herr Schattmann would have the law made retroactive and would also apply it to German copyrights of foreign books.

The revenue, he believes, would be very large, and best of all, it would be gained with no very perceptible burdening of the general public. An especially large income would come from the theatres. The tax on pieces still protected by copyright need be but one or two per cent after the taking over of the expired copyright by the state, and under the retroactive provisions of the law, Mozart, Weber, Lortzing, Schiller and scores of other popular authors and composers would be an additional source of revenue.

Schattmann sees, as a further advantage, the possibility for the state to exercise its new powers in encouraging promising talents.

HUNGARIAN AUTHORITIES LIMIT SIZE OF PAPERS.

Vienna, April 1.—The Hungarian authorities now limit the size of newspapers, according to their price, says a Budapest dispatch to a local labor paper. Papers which sell at one cent may not use more than six pages of ordinary size, while two cent papers may use from eight to twelve pages. No newspaper may print more than twelve pages at a single issue.

FIRST NAVY AIRSHIP IS DELIVERED TODAY

Dirigible Airship for United States Fleet Will Receive Its Tests Soon.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Pensacola, Fla., April 1.—The DN-1, first of United States Navy's fleet of dirigible airships, was delivered to the government by the Connecticut Aircraft company and made ready for its initial flight under the direction of Pilot Lieutenant Commander McCrary at the naval aeronautic station here today.

Commander McCrary recently returned from his naval business journey to London and supervised completion of the DN-1 at New Haven, Conn., where the big envelope was assembled. Naval authorities predict that the DN-1 is the first of a monster fleet of aircraft which eventually will become one of the country's biggest defense forces.

While this dirigible is a small non-rigid affair compared to the Zeppelins in use on the other side, the company is already working on plans for the construction of a larger ship of the rigid type and built on the lines of the latest models now in use in Europe. It will be used as a training ship for the instruction of pilots.

The dirigible is 175 feet long, 35 feet in diameter and 50 feet high. It weighs 5,000 pounds and has a lifting capacity of 2,000 pounds, making a total of 7,000 pounds. The envelope will contain 150,000 cubic feet of hydrogen and the craft will travel at a speed of thirty-five miles an hour.

The car is twenty feet long and five feet wide and will carry a crew of eight. It is built to float on the water. Motive power is provided by an eight cylinder gasoline engine, which operates two four-bladed propellers, one on each side of the car.

It will be steered by a big canvas rudder hung on the rear of the envelope, while horizontal planes, running on the equator of the envelope, will prevent a rolling motion.

In the front and back ends of the envelope, separated from the main compartment for the lifting hydrogen gas, are two compartments to direct the balloon up and down, as it is desired to ascend the rear compartment is pumped full of air, which makes that end much heavier than the front. The envelope points upward and is driven by the propellers. When it is desired to descend the operation is reversed, the front of the machine being made heavier than the rear.

A system of pulleys through which the suspending ropes pass keeps the car itself at a horizontal position, no matter what the angle of inclination of the envelope may be. A tube rises from the car which for the purpose of driving air into the two compartments, which are known as balloons.

The two propellers can be rotated by means of a handwheel and worn gear in a vertical plane, so that their line of thrust can be kept parallel to the horizontal axis of the envelope no matter what the angle of inclination of the envelope.

Every portion of the cloth that went into the envelope of this balloon was examined with the aid of a strong light and wherever the warp or wool thread appeared to be weak or thinner than usual, the parts were re-reinforced, although the cloth was absolutely new.

In the gondola a large margin of safety has been observed, while the balloon for its size is said to be more powerfully engined than any now in existence.

DIG MILITARY TRENCHES FOR ANNUAL INSPECTION

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Madison, Wis., April 1.—Trench construction is one of the practical phases of military art which will be illustrated by the cadet corps of the university of Wisconsin at the annual inspection which is to be made on Tuesday, May 9, by Major Monroe McFarland of the general staff of the United States army. A set of trenches illustrated the principle upon which a series for the entrenchment of a large army could be built will be dug by a student company near the university campus.

The trench is to be constructed on the principle of the squad trench. Each division of the cadet corps is to have separate detached trenches connected by a circular pathway. This pathway prevents a shell from taking off more than one section of a trench, and at the same time permits passage from one part of it to another. Leading up to the trenches.

GOODRICH "BAREFOOT" Tires

THE E. F. GOODRICH CO. Akron, Ohio

MAKING the "Silvertown" Cord Tire, taught us a few lessons in the manufacture of lighter, cooler, more flexible and enduring FABRIC Tires.

The "Silvertown" Tire, you know, gains its marvelous Speed (and the Coasting qualities that demonstrate its Speed) primarily through having only TWO layers of Cords, laid transversely.

Of course, these TWO layers bend more readily than Five, Six, or Seven Layers of Fabric do (or of Cord would).

But, we found it necessary, in order to conserve that flexibility (in the Two-cord construction), to put a Rubber Tread over it which was equally flexible, equally strong, and elastic enough to act as a sort of spring between the Earth and the Tire-casing, when Brakes were thrown on at stopping, or clutch thrown in at starting.

So, we had to devise practically a new kind of Rubber, for this purpose, TWO YEARS AGO.

And this new kind of Rubber Compound now does for GOODRICH Tires a work paralleling that done by the wonderful Alloys of Steel and Bronze in modern Motor Car construction.

It multiplies Rubber Efficiency, for Tire purposes, while decreasing its Weight, and without increasing its Bulk, or its Cost to you.

AS we cannot yet supply half the demand for "Silvertown Cord Tires" (until enough manufacturing equipment can be constructed) we compromise with the Public by giving them, without additional charge, the highly efficient black Silvertown Rubber in all Goodrich FABRIC Tires for 1916.

This makes GOODRICH Fabric Tires the most Resilient and Responsive to Power, the most Long-Lived and Lively, of all FABRIC Tires, at ANY price, without increasing their relative price to you.

We call this new Silvertown Tread Compound by the name and brand of "Barefoot Rubber."

Because, it CLINGS to the pavement for the same sort of reason that your bare foot clings to a slippery floor, while being flexible, stretchy, springy, and light.

TENACIOUS, resilient, enduring, this "Barefoot Rubber" you today get in all black-tread Goodrich Fabric Tires, Goodrich Motor-Cycle Tires, Goodrich Truck Tires, Goodrich Bicycle Tires, Goodrich Rubber Boots, Overshoes, Soles and Heels, and in none but GOODRICH products.

Test out a pair of these moderately priced black-tread FABRIC Tires and see what results from the mixing of BRAINS with Rubber.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Every fourth year in this country is a political year, and while the average man is not a politician, yet he takes more interest in the national election than any other because he has been educated to believe that the results are of supreme importance, and that the question of individual as well as national prosperity is involved. We are facing an election of this kind this year, and when the votes are counted in November the destiny of the federal government will be determined for the next four years.

The preliminary campaign is now on, and next Tuesday the voters of Wisconsin will elect delegates to represent them at the national convention to be held in Chicago and St. Louis in June. The democratic list is composed of five names and a vote for these names is the same thing as a vote for Wilson, as he will be nominated without opposition in the St. Louis convention.

In the last column on the ballot will be found eight names. Four of them marked La Follette delegates, who are pledged to vote for the senator for president, and four marked republican principles and tariff protection.

These four names are Emanuel L. Philipp, the governor; Emil Baensch, Samuel A. Cook and Christian K. Ellingson. They are alphabetically arranged and will appear on the ballot in columns 2, 5, 8 and 9. The Gazette is this particular in describing them because they are the men which every republican should vote for.

They were duly nominated at a republican convention, two thousand strong, held in Madison in February. If elected they will go to the Chicago convention, uninstructed, ready to support the most available candidate, and aid in harmonizing the party and restoring it to power. A vote for Senator La Follette for president amounts to nothing except to gratify ambition, and issues of greater importance are at stake.

The country has had a taste of democratic rule for the past four years. Mr. Wilson was elected by 40 per cent of the popular vote, the other 60 per cent being about equally divided by the two rival republican candidates, President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt. But for the split in the republican party, Mr. Wilson would never have been president, and while the people have been loyal, he has always been regarded as a minority representative.

The democratic party has enjoyed twelve years of government rule during the past half century. The eight years under Grover Cleveland was a success. Free trade tendencies and lack of confidence resulted in panic and general depression, and a bond issue of $165,000,000 was necessary to pay running expenses.

At the opening of President Wilson's administration, the business of the country immediately adopted a policy of retrenchment which was well under way when the foreign war broke out. This so revolutionized conditions in America that new channels of business were opened up, and prosperity continued to bless the nation, not because of, but in spite of a democratic administration.

What might have happened to the country, but for the war, will never be known, but it is safe to assume that a long season of depression and business stagnation would have resulted. We had a touch of hard times without a panic, which was averted because of the abundance of money.

The democratic party has been tried and found wanting. Its history is a matter of record, and the character now closing will add nothing to its laurels. The future historian will write President Wilson down as one of the weakest presidents that was ever honored with a seat at the White House.

A cultured, kindly gentleman, with pedagogic training, and life-long association, which unfitted him for the great responsibilities of national leadership. It is said that he has kept the nation out of war. No president could have done less. He has been a stickler for the enforcement of international law on the high seas, to protect a few foolhardy Americans who courted danger, regardless of national welfare.

His Mexican policy has been child's play from the start. Where it will land us, time alone can tell. American life and property, across the border, entitled to protection, has been ruthlessly sacrificed. He refused to recognize President Huerta at a time when he represented the only organized government in Mexico and is now attempting to deal with bandits.

The mission of the republican national convention is to place in nomination a man who can unite the party and lead it to victory in November. Just who this man will be has not yet been determined, but Wisconsin, by electing the delegates selected will be in position to aid in the work.

It now looks as though it was Roosevelt against the field. There was a time, not so long ago, when he was recognized as the greatest living American. He is just as great today, though not as popular. Should he be nominated he will be elected, and the nation will have a president.

While national politics is of absorbing interest just now, the fact should not be overlooked that we have a home election next Tuesday, which is of vital interest to the welfare of the city. There is no politics in this election, because it is held under the commission form of government, where politics and religion are never made an issue.

When this form of government was adopted in Janesville it was bitterly opposed by the saloon men, and their allied interests, and the issue became an issue between law and order and lawlessness. When an attempt was made to recall the mayor, two years ago, the same forces lined up against each other, and in both cases, law and order won.

Mr. Sheridan, one of the candidates for councilman, was unfortunately lined up on the wrong side, in both of these contests, and many of the voters are afraid to trust him now.

Mr. Cummings, his opponent, who seeks re-election, has behind him a record of four years of faithful and efficient service. The people take no pleasure in rejecting him, and there is every reason why he should receive a substantial majority.

The city election is of more importance to us than any other. It touches our pocketbooks and influences the moral atmosphere in which we live. And yet twenty per cent of the voters are so indifferent that they neglect to vote, and these star-stalk-home citizens are the first to complain. They always talk about what "they" done, and shirk personal responsibility.

Every man in the city owes it to himself and to the city which shelters him, to turn out and vote next Tuesday. The majority of the people believe in good government. We can have it all the time, if we say the word.

The men who had the pleasure of listening to Doctor Gilkey at the Union Brotherhood meeting, last Tuesday evening, discovered that there are many kinds of hyphenated Christians. So there are many sorts of hyphenated citizens in every community. One class is represented by men who defy the law, or obey it because they fear it, but a more dangerous and larger class is composed of the men who are so indifferent that their moral support is negligible. Let us wake up and work together for a better Janesville.

DOMESTIC PEACE.
Henry Ford, according to court testimony just given, requires his workpeople to live peacefully with their wives. If they can't be harmonious at home, they must quit his employment at $3.00 per day. A man who quarrels with his wife in the morning makes a poor workman all day, says Henry. Good for him!

Modern life is disgracefully full of domestic friction. Much of it finds its way to the courts, but still more never comes much to the surface, though destroying all domestic peace. While much of this quarreling results from indeliberate and other wrongs, yet probably more of it comes from mere bad temper.

The man comes back irritated from the day's work. Things have gone wrong, hopes have turned to failures, people have been unreasonable. He can't show strain down town, as he would lose trade, his job, or his employees. So he takes it out on his wife, who may not be quick tongued enough to hit back.

Similarly with the wife. If she does her own work, she is tired; if she has servants, she is exasperated with their insolence. Often she is nervous and fretful for lack of fresh air. She snaps up her husband for trifling infractions of discipline.

Love may bear thorns for a time, but there is a limit. Even if the couple prefer to avoid scandal and live together, the sweet unity of the home is spoiled. The man seeks refuge at the club, the wife is glad when he slams the door and leaves her to her own diversions. There is no loving counsel or nurture of children, which grow up like noxious weeds and become degenerative forces in society.

If men and women could learn self-control in the single matter of speech, these discords could be avoided. Homes would then be what they were meant for, a place of healing from the jarring conflict of the world. They would also be a school for rearing children into good citizenship. Mr. Ford will find more approval in this peace movement than in his ambitious international efforts.

The Daily Novelette

The Conspiracy.
Many a man waits for a ship to come in who never sent one out—Prof. Simpson.

After thinking about the slums for several hours, Geoff Diddle at last saw three low-browed cutthroats who, he thought, looked murderous enough for his dark design. He approached them in the hazy of each. That got their interest immediately.

"There's two more like that for each of you, my men, if you're open for a little business, he whispered. And in guarded tones he told them what he wanted. Apparently nothing was too black for them to do, for they agreed immediately.

"Good!" said Geoff Diddle. "And if you have any trouble and your own weapons don't suffice, you'll find an axe and one or two odds and ends like that all ready for you in the vestibule. In the dark of the next night, three evil figures descended on the Diddle home, and for five minutes there was clamor and strange sounds. The next morning the horrified family discovered that the baby grand piano had been hacked into kindling wood. Geoff Diddle figured that this would be months and months before little Diddle would be able to take practice again in the house.

LA FOLLETTE IS IMPOSSIBLE AS REAL CANDIDATE

M. G. JEFFRIS MAKES TELLING SPEECH AT ELKHORN FRIDAY NIGHT.

HOLDS THE STATE BACK

Personal Policy Harmful.—Philipp Delegation Must Play Active Part in G. O. P. Convention.

SALIENT FEATURES OF JEFFRIS' SPEECH
La Follette is an impossibility as a presidential candidate. The senior senator is merely running for president to keep his name before the public. The democrats always make a botch of the tariff question. There must be an embargo on exportation of munitions of war. Under republican control the United States has become the richest nation in the world. Public life, turn him out. Send the unpledged republican candidates for delegates, headed by Gov. Philipp, to the national convention. The best, the ablest man the republicans can find, is none too good to pilot this country.

Elkhorn, Wis., April 1.—Charging that La Follette has betrayed his party, his state, and as a candidate for president does not stand a ghost of a chance to be nominated, M. G. Jeffris of Janesville, who may be the conservative candidate for senator, thrilled a big crowd at Sprague opera house here Friday night.

Jeffris, in his characteristic red-bellied, fearless, uncompromising manner, discussed men and principles, appealing to Wisconsin electors to send to the republican national convention the delegate ticket headed by Gov. Philipp, to the national convention.

He made the following points: "1. That La Follette as a candidate for president is not in the running; that he is a candidate merely to keep his name before the public and because he would like to get to the national convention with the state of Wisconsin in his vest pocket."

"2. That if Wisconsin is to exercise a real voice in the affairs of the republic, it is necessary that we elect the unpledged delegates headed by Gov. Philipp."

"3. Under the republican system of protective tariff America has become the richest nation in the world; that La Follette voted for a democratic tariff and now is shifting; that the democrats always make a botch of the tariff question."

"4. That the republican system rests in a common sense real preparedness, which should be brought about by business men of the Philipp type and not by politicians of the La Follette type."

"5. That America adhere to absolute neutrality without an embargo on the exportation of munitions of war."

"6. That a firm foreign policy, which will make it possible to keep out of war, without the loss of national honor, rests the dignity and world standing of the United States."

"We are approaching a national campaign," said Jeffris, "that may possibly prove to be one of the most important in the history of the country and certainly it may be the most important of any except that of 1860 and 1864. Questions of public welfare and safety are to be settled; questions, the answers to which may have an important bearing upon your business and life so long as you may live, and may affect the welfare of your children and your children's children. It is a time when we should put at the helm of affairs a most capable and trustworthy citizen, one who is not a mere voter to exercise mature judgment, free of every prejudice and passion. The best man, the ablest and the greatest statesman is none too good as a pilot of this ship through the world storm. Send the petty politician to the rear and call out our bravest reserves."

Turn Out Trickster.
"When you find that a man has been a political trickster, turn him out. When a man has tried to put class against class he has shown himself to be unworthy of public trust. When a man has shown himself to be unworthy of public trust, he is unworthy of the community and an opposite thing in another community, neither can rely upon him. Let us, at this time, try to rise from small politics and stand shoulder to shoulder as American citizens."

Mr. Jeffris drew attention to the fact that the La Follette delegation in the republican national convention would be under the personal direction of La Follette, an impossibility as a presidential candidate.

"Are you in a vote for such a delegation acting in the interests of the state of Wisconsin?" asked Jeffris. "Is it fair to the rest of the nation of sister states to send a delegation tied up to an impossibility? That is playing to the cheapest and lowest kind of petty politics. Neither the republicans nor democrats can afford to see much a miserable spectacle made of the fair state of Wisconsin. Do you want it to go out to the country that Senator La Follette carries the state of Wisconsin in his vest pocket, that he can traffic, trade and advertise with the name of our state? Does not your citizenship, regardless of party, revolt at such a condition of affairs?"

Cast Your Unpledged Delegates.
"Cast your vote for the six delegates, four at large and two in this district, who will go as independent, uninstructed representatives to cast their votes for the best man and soundest principles and not mere puppets to do the will of any politician."

"Senator La Follette is neither a democrat nor republican. If you will trace his history you will find that he has tried to keep both parties in Wisconsin and to an extent he has disrupted the democratic party. He plays politics twenty-four hours a day, and seven days a week. In the past he has been aided largely by democratic votes. Democrats admit this from themselves and say that their purpose in voting for him was because they knew he was not a republican, and when voting for La Follette they were at least injuring the republican party. Democrats who have done this in the past admit that they have been making a great political mistake, and that it is far better to have party lines well defined and for each party to carry on the contest in an open, aboveboard, manly fashion."

U. S. Richest Nation.
Jeffris devoted attention to the tariff. Under the republican system of the protective tariff the United States has become the richest and most prosperous nation in the world, and he said. The democrats always make a botch of the tariff, and La Follette, having voted for it, has resorted to jumping jack tactics on this vital question. Even President Wilson, he said, in his reconvened tariff commission, had admitted the weakness of the democratic party on this question.

It had not been for the war in Europe that the United States would now be experiencing a period of business stagnation never before equalled in the country's history.

There must be an embargo on exportation of munitions of war. Under republican control the United States has become the richest nation in the world. Public life, turn him out. TO APPEAL UTILITY CASE TO U. S. COURT

Portion of Wisconsin Law Effecting Municipal Purchase of a Part of a Plant Under Controversy. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., April 1.—The United States supreme court will be called upon to pass upon that portion of the public utility law which permits a city to purchase the existing utility plant in a city even though it be but a segment of a large plant. The question arose in the case of the city of Menasha, which has attempted to purchase the property of the Wisconsin Light, Heat & Traction company within the confines of the city. The matter has been in litigation for a long time and finally the Wisconsin supreme court upheld the railroad commission in holding that the city might purchase that portion of the plant within the city. The company which operates in Menasha also operates in several other cities and the portion of the plant in Menasha is only a small segment.

Attorney General Owen has just had certified to him the appeal from the decision of the supreme court. The traction company now applies for an order restraining the city from putting the order into effect. The matter is to be argued on April 8, probably before Judge A. L. Sanborn.

TOBACCO SHIPMENT OFF FOR TRENCHES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, April 1.—The French liner Rochambeau which sailed for Bordeaux has on board 42,000 pounds of smoking tobacco, 2,500,000 cigars and 422 gross of corn cobs which will be distributed among soldiers of Great Britain and France in France and Belgium.

The shipment is in charge of Mrs. George Washington Lott, who since early in the war has been devoting all her time to collection of tobacco and pipes for men in the trenches.

Mr. Lott who accompanied his wife, has collected here twenty-two tons of powdered milk, cereals and canned goods for the American ambulance hospital in France. He has raised in this country also money for the purchase of 73 shower baths for use of French soldiers, when relieved from trench duty.

Mrs. Lott was born in Washington. Her husband is a Paraguayan, son of a former minister from Paraguay to France.

AFTON

Afton, March 31.—Owing to the inclemency of the weather no service was held at the Baptist church Sunday. The usual Sunday school service will be held next Sunday at 10:30 with preaching at 11:30 o'clock. Mr. Reimer of Beloit will occupy the pulpit.

Mrs. George Robb has returned from Durand, where she was called by the serious illness of her sister in law, Mrs. Waggoner.

The Rev. C. J. Eddy of Rockton, Fred Eldredge and L. J. McCrea of Beloit and J. C. Eddy of this place made Thursday "clean-up" day at the cemetery, burning grass and weeds. If more who should be interested would take hold of the work, the place could be kept in much better condition through the summer.

Solid Rock Camp will hold its regular April meeting next Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock in Brinkman's Hall. This meeting decides the attendance contest, so every member should endeavor to be present.

AUTOMOBILE INVESTMENT IN WISCONSIN AMOUNTS TO OVER $100,000,000

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., April 1.—That the people of Wisconsin do not realize the amount of money invested in the automobile industry in this state is the contention of A. J. Cobban, who has charge of the registration of automobiles in the secretary of state's office. There are more than 80,000 automobile owners in Wisconsin, he said, and their investment is estimated at $80,000,000. The upkeep of this number of cars can safely be estimated at $250 a year each, making a total of $20,000,000 and a grand total of more than $100,000,000 invested in cars. Besides this there are 8,000 motorcycles registered, said Mr. Cobban, which at a cost of $150 a machine would give you the sum of $1,200,000. With the cycles in stock this will easily approximate $1,500,000, making a grand total of $101,500,000 investment in automobiles and motorcycles in the state. There are some 360 different makes of cars registered in the state of Wisconsin, the Ford leading with thirty-six per cent.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Written and Publication Authorized by John J. Sheridan and to be paid for by him at the rate of 40c per inch

To the Voters and Citizens of Janesville:-

Regardless of what my political opponents may say, I take this opportunity of assuring the voters and citizens that I am in favor of a morally clean and well regulated city.

If elected councilman, I will do all in my power to give the people such an administration.

If elected, I will try to conduct the city's business in an economical manner and assure the tax payers that they will get a dollar's worth of value for every dollar expended.

If elected, I promise every one a square deal, and assure the citizens that the council room door will always be open.

I have made no promises, other than to the public; I have no axes to grind, and if elected, I promise the people that I will personally acquaint myself with all city affairs and after consulting with my constituents will exercise my own best judgement on all matters pertaining to city affairs.

My life has been spent in Janesville. My family, my home and all my business interests are here.

I am interested in all that is good for the city.

I ask you to consider my personal qualifications and my business record in making your choice for councilman. Your support will be appreciated.

ASSUMES NEW DUTIES AT COMMERCIAL CLUB

SECRETARY ARRIVES TO TAKE UP WORK FORMERLY HELD BY W. J. McDOWELL WHO RESIGNED IN FEBRUARY.

ARRIVAL IS OPPORTUNE

Club Members Feel Club Needs Strong Man at This Period of Awakening in All Lines.

Peter V. Kuhn, new secretary of the Janesville Commercial club today assumed the responsibilities of the office. He comes to Janesville to assume the position formerly held by W. J. McDowell, whose resignation was effective February 1st. Mr. McDowell is now in railway work at Chicago, Ill. Mr. Kuhn's home is in Indiana. Mr. Kuhn takes up his new duties well recommended. He is versed particularly in freight rates and traffic. He has more or less of an insight into local and civic advancement and also to propositions regarding industrial development. Chairman and committee of various divisions handling these affairs under the auspices of the Commercial club have pledged to him their support and satisfactory co-operation is looked for along all those lines in which the local advancement association and the city as a whole is vitally interested.

PETER V. KUHN

Knows Freight Business.
The new secretary since 1909 has had a widely varied employment with railroads and corporations along freight traffic. Since 1911 he has been in the general freight department of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway company at its Chicago offices. Previous to getting into this department he was chief clerk to the division freight agent with offices at Philadelphia, Pa., and New York, N. Y.

Members of the Commercial club regard Mr. Kuhn's taking up the secretaryship just at this time as highly opportune. It is an auspicious period in the history of the city due to the awakenings along divers lines, great or small, of which it is that forward movement toward industry and manufacturing.

It is well known and conceded fact that Janesville is more alive to its possibilities at the present time than ever before. Then again the spirit of co-operation seems to be more in evidence than at any time in the city's history. The city is more united than ever before.

Mr. Kuhn's coming to Janesville is a result of the canvass for subscriptions to the fund for bringing the Gossard Corset Manufacturing company branch plant to the city.

Members of the Commercial club who were informed of Mr. Kuhn's beginning his work this morning, called on him during the morning and afternoon. He received a hearty welcome on every side with assurances that the city was pleased to extend him welcome.

M. O. Mout, chairman of the Industrial committee, announced that this body will hold a special meeting on Monday. Plans are to effect a re-organization of matters regarding the canvass for the Gossard factory, to check up subscription lists and to formulate plans for the raising of the remaining money needed to bring the plant to Janesville. Approximately two thousand dollars is at that is needed to complete the purchase of the factory.

Results of the canvass have been highly gratifying and little trouble is expected in securing the remaining amount.

MEMORIAL DAY PLAN IS GIVEN APPROVAL

Arrangements Made for Special Observance of Decoration Day by Entire City.

Machinery was set in motion Friday evening at a meeting of representatives of lodges, churches and other organizations of the city for the most patriotic observance of Memorial day that Janesville has enjoyed in some time. Societies, lodges, churches, schools and citizens generally will take part in the affair. All places of business will be closed for one day, and an effort will be made to have all sports, basketball games, races and amusements dispensed with for the day.

Each society will be called upon to furnish flowers and the school children will be asked to make a program of the day. A speaker of reputation will be secured and a parade will be held if weather conditions permit. In order to carry out these plans, committees have been organized. Matters will be appointed, all serving under the general committee on arrangements which was elected a week ago. Committees on flowers, music, transportation, and a speaker and readers; resolutions, parade and schools.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Mary Tall entertained at a six o'clock dinner at her home. Covers were laid for twenty guests. A most enjoyable time was had by those present.

Mrs. August Meyer has sufficiently recovered to leave her home at Fond du Lac and will be with her sister, Mrs. Kohn, for the next few weeks at 337 Ellis street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Finley have returned to their home at 211 Cedar street after spending three weeks at Hot Springs, Ark.

Miss Sonia Bunin left last evening for Milwaukee, and Stevens Point where she will spend her vacation.

Mrs. Louis Amerpohl of 113 Clark street, entertained a club of ladies this afternoon. The guests played auction bridge, after which refreshments were served.

Mrs. F. L. Church and two sons of Chicago, are spending several days in town visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton of Albany, Wis., are the over-Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Conrad of Pleasant street.

Miss Elizabeth Carney went to Fond du Lac today for a week's visit with relatives.

H. Wilber of Madison, is spending the day on business in Janesville.

Mrs. Thomas Howe of Terrace street was hostess to a small card club a few days ago. They have taken the name of "The Garden Club" and meet every two weeks.

OPPOSITION KILLS REST ROOM PROJECT

ALL SOULS' SOCIETY WITHDRAW OFFER OF ENDOWMENT IN FACE OF UNDUCE CRITICISM.

ORGANIZE FEDERATION

Meeting of Club Women at Library Hall Friday Afternoon Results in Election of Officers.

Criticism and undue opposition among the club women of the city to the rest room project has resulted in the withdrawal of the endowment offer of the All Souls' society which had been made with the idea of fitting up one of the unfinished rooms on the second floor of the public library.

At the meeting of the club women at the library hall Friday afternoon for the purpose of organizing a city federation the following announcement was made:

"Owing to the criticism and opposition with which the project of a rest room in the library building had been received, the offer would be withdrawn and notice to this effect has already been filed with the mayor and the chairman of the library board."

Along with the prospects of a rest room the plan of locating a woman's club in the library building was also a topic of discussion. It was decided that the work which was begun over a year ago, which seemed about to be realized, is now no farther than it was at the start.

There were about 75 women present Friday, representing all the study clubs, the civic league, the W. C. T. U. and the local chapter of D. A. R. The first order of business was to elect officers of the federation. The following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. W. H. Bosworth, called the meeting to order with Miss Sarah Richardson as secretary pro tem. The question of a federation was taken up. BELIEVE PRISONER CAUGHT AT MONROE

IS CARL M. EGBERT

Mrs. Myrtle Egbert, Daughter of John Aldrich, Attempting to Recover Baby Daughter From Husband.

Failure of the Green county sheriff to bring Carl Mohler from Monroe through Janesville enroute to Jefferson this morning, prevented the Janesville police and county officers from determining if Mohler is really Carl M. Egbert, who they desire to interview regarding the disappearance of a child. The police here have every reason to believe that Carl Mohler and Egbert are one and the same man and if their belief is true, an attempt will be made to clear up a mystery of where Egbert had spirited the child away.

Mrs. Carl M. Egbert, 430 North Pearl street, uniting in marriage to Carl M. Egbert in August, 1911. Two children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Egbert, a boy, Ernest, and a girl, four years of age, at the present time named Helen Elsie. They lived in Beloit, Chicago and Minneapolis at various times. Mrs. Egbert was formerly Miss Myrtle Aldrich.

Egbert, on one occasion, was arrested in Janesville for drunkenness and this was the first time that he ever was known to the police here. In August Mrs. Egbert was working in Minneapolis and the daughter was confined to a Milwaukee hospital. The husband, with the mother's consent, took the baby daughter to his mother, Mrs. Helen Egbert at Beloit.

A short time, according to Mrs. Egbert, was not a thing to be considered. In October last year, Mrs. Egbert first learned that her husband's mother had taken the girl to California and since then she has not seen or heard since from her child. Her husband refused to tell the mother where the child was, following a separation on January fourth, 1916.

When the information was received that Carl Mohler was in Monroe, the mother was arrested in Monroe for attempting a swindle Mrs. Egbert believed that Mohler was her husband, having the authorities a false name. The police at Chicago and Beloit, in connection with the Monroe authorities and the description of the two men are alike. From other sources the police obtained information that Mohler was really Egbert and consequently the police were on the look-out this morning to see if the man was brought through this city.

Mohler was caught at Monroe for forging checks amounting to $3,500, attempting to swindle farmers by purchasing cattle and paying for them with the false checks. It was discovered that Mohler did not have the money to pay for the cattle. All have seven thousand dollars in outside bank as he claimed and this caused his apprehension before he had time to "get away" with his alleged money. Mohler was to have been brought to Jefferson this morning to plead guilty before Judge Grimm on the charge of obtaining money under false pretences.

Mrs. Egbert was at the railroad station with the police to see if Mohler was really Egbert but for some unknown reason the Monroe authorities failed to bring the prisoner through this city this morning or last night. If the belief of the police is true, an attempt will be made to have Egbert reveal the location of the child as Mrs. Egbert demands the girl's return. According to Mrs. Egbert, proceedings have been started for a divorce and legal steps will be taken to obtain the child from Egbert's mother if necessary. The boy, Ernest, age eighteen months, is with his mother at her parent's home.

NEWVILLE

Newville, March 31.—A very pretty wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Stricker Wednesday, March 22, when their daughter Marie was united in marriage to John Odenwalder of Milton. Promptly at six o'clock to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Lillian Sumner, the couple took their place and the Rev. Spillman performed the ceremony which made them man and wife. The bride was attended by Miss Anna Doerr of Evanston, cousin of the bride, and Herman Odenwalder, brother of the groom, acted as best man. Following the ceremony a beautiful two course wedding supper was served to about forty-five guests. Music was furnished during the entire meal. The bride was handsomely attired in a gown of white crepe meteor, while the groom wore the conventional black. Many useful presents were received. The happy couple left the next day for an extended visit to Rockford, after which they will be at home on the bride's father's farm in Newville. They have many friends who wish them much happiness and prosperity. Among the out of town guests were Miss Anna Doerr of Evanston, Mr. and Mrs. L. Odenwalder and sons Carl, Theodore, Herman and Herbert; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Odenwalder, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dallman and son Oscar of Milton.

THE GIRL AND THE GAME ...

"By jingo," cried the sheriff, dashing away, "I've got a prisoner chained in there—Spike."

With exclamations of horror, Helen and her companions followed the officer on the run. The fire in the council chamber was making headway fast. Helen, going as close as she dared to the open window, called loudly for Spike. There was no answer. Followed by Storm she rushed for the door. But the sheriff caught the young engineer and held him back. Helen had already passed through the doorway and amid the smoke and flame saw Spike, chained to the floor, struggling with superhuman strength to tear loose from his shackles.

Outside, Storm, hurrying off the hands of the restraining sheriff, ran in after Helen. He found her vainly endeavoring to release Spike. The heavy black smoke billowing from the rear wall threatened to suffocate them. But Storm, Helen and Spike helpings, seized the heavy chains in his hands and, ripped the boards in which the staples were embedded, completely out of the floor. Then pushing Spike with loud shouts ahead, dragged the boards after him, Helen and Storm, half choked, hurried from the burning room into the street.

Firemen coming up took charge of the conflagration. But the sheriff detained Spike again, telling him he was a prisoner.

In Seagrue's room, not far away, Doctor Torpy was examining Bill's head. He discovered almost at once that the foreman had not been shot at all.

"You're not hurt," said the doctor, laughing. "But they're trying to hang one of your men down street right now for shooting you. Better notify your gang to call things off." The doctor turned to the window, threw up the sash and called out into the street.

The sheriff, below, was turning Spike over to a deputy when, hearing his name called, he looked up and saw Torpy at the window. The doctor beckoned. "Bring that man up here, sheriff," he cried.

In walked the sheriff, followed by Spike, Helen, Storm and Rhineland. Bill sheepishly submitted to being made an exhibit and the surgeon showed to the sheriff the wound made on his temple by the awning hook. There was nothing to do but release Spike with apologies which the latter received with a dry grunt.

Helen could not restrain her satisfaction but more good luck was in store for her. She saw on the table the missing book of deeds. "There!" she cried to the sheriff, "is your real explanation." She pointed to Seagrue. "Arrest that man, not Spike!"

Seagrue, knowing the sheriff was his friend, boldly denied all knowledge of the book. "These people," he pointed to Storm and his companions, "probably planted this here in my absence. You ought to arrest them!"

Spike smiled grimly as the sheriff looked from one to the other of the contending parties and listened to the angry accusations. The bald-headed convict drew from his blouse the two sheets missing from the book of deeds and quietly handed them to Rhineland. "I thought it just as well," he said, dryly, "to make sure these didn't get away."

"Battle Cry of Peace" Has Been the Sensation of New York and Chicago.

"The Battle Cry of Peace" is a spur toward preparedness. Not in order to declare, but in order to prevent it. Many have read the book "Defenseless America," which has for its plot the laying bare of every weakness of the country we love to vandal hands, who at the slightest chance would tear it to pieces.

Through the generalities of war shown in all their brutal crudity, we are subtly led up to a specific instance; we are taken into our own homes where the head of the family spouts peace and the children are content to have it so. And then comes war. It isn't so difficult as it sounds. You would be surprised if you knew with what rapidity our scanty defenses could be swept away. Our navy, hopelessly inadequate, is worse still, separated so that the fleet may be more easily demolished.

New York Sweet Away.

New York is the center of power, would be swept away before the first shrapnel. We haven't sufficient arms to meet any enemy on equal terms. Our country has degenerated to quite an extent from the days of Washington and Lincoln. We count on our wealth and our number to safeguard us against anything. These things do very well in times of peace, but in time of war they will be a whole army availing against a handful of men who are equipped to wage modern warfare.

The "Battle Cry of Peace," then, is a frank setting forth of a problem that ought to be faced by every man and every woman of today. It pleads for better soldiers. It shows the folly of laying down arms. It takes up the words of many brave men of today as well as yesterday. Men are not afraid to speak what is in their hearts for the welfare of the country.

Fighting for Peace.

We are fighting for peace, universal peace, but to buy it, and at the price of honor, never. We should educate young America as the youngsters of foreign countries are educated not to fight and bring carnage over the land, but to hold their country sacred as their homes, and to uphold its honor above all other things.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

A monument to "The Blindness of Virtue"—a life-sized figure of the personification of girlhood innocence and ignorance—this is the ambition of Miss Edna Mayo, the actress and sculptress who, it will be recalled, portrayed the leading part of Effie in this moral film. Miss Mayo maintains a studio in her dressing room.

"At first I was in doubt which was the richest subject for a statue," she said. "Mary Ann, who went wrong; or Effie, who was rescued on the edge of the pit."

"For a dismal melancholy figure, whose face is contorted with the mental agony of shame and accusation, I should choose Mary Ann. As Effie, who was the first to be tempted, I have decided that a face radiating light and pride from the newly revealed facts regarding herself and with trembling hands drawing the blinding veil of ignorance away from her face would be more inspiring than one of Mary Ann's."

Edna Mayo.

finger nails gouged deep holes. Of course it was all an accident and the landlady is in reality one of Miss Mayo's most ardent admirers—but that does not replace the small first line trenches which are plowed in the star's hand.

Willard Mack, Gerda Holmes and Clara Whipple will head the cast of a big feature, temporarily entitled, "His One Big Chance." This is a newspaper story of unique and powerful character.

PHYSICAL ANGUISH FOR HAZEL DAWN

Being thrown out of the house by an irate landlady merely in motion pictures is, according to Hazel Dawn, fraught with a great deal of physical anguish. In proof of which the star holds up a small white hand into which three of the film landlady's

It will be seen at the Apollo on Tuesday and Wednesday.

AT THE APOLLO.

Pauline Frederick incomparable in "The Spider."

Pauline Frederick in two roles in the same production! This is the first time that the great Famous Players star who recently appeared in "Zaza" and "Bella Donna" has ever been seen on the screen in widely different characterizations. In a Paramount Picture, "The Spider," which will be seen at the Apollo on Monday, Miss Frederick plays Valerie St. Cyr, a notorious Parisian beauty, and her abandoned daughter Joan. Marhee. The one has fled with a profligate nobleman, leaving her little baby with its sickly, poverty-stricken father. The baby grows up to be a beautiful girl who is employed in a flower shop. She becomes engaged to Julian St. Saens, a young artist of very puritanical principles who is drawn to her by the girl's total unsophistication and her rare beauty.

Thus Miss Frederick is called upon to portray characters that are diametrically opposed to each other, and must suggest the care-worn, weary woman of the world who is tired of her foolish bargain while in the other instance she is the innocent epitome of exuberant spirits, pulsing with the joy of living. Though the interpretation of such exacting roles would be a difficult task for the average actress, no one who has seen Miss Frederick's previous performances on the stage or on the screen will doubt her ability to enact both characters with distinction.

NAVY LEAGUE PLANS CAMPAIGN IN CITY

H. S. Lovejoy Accepts Appointment of Navy League to the Member-ship Committee.

A campaign for members to the Navy League of the United States will be undertaken by H. S. Lovejoy, in this city, as a branch of the oldest defense organization has been started in Janesville. H. S. Lovejoy accepted the appointment made by President Robert M. Thompson to head the membership committee in this city.

"The object of the Navy League is to secure adequate navy protection for this country," stated Mr. Lovejoy on Friday. "It is not so much to have more money appropriated for the defense, but to have the nation obtain more results from the amount of money that is already expended for the navy. Through this organization it is hoped to unite enough citizens to bear weight upon congress to follow the lead of the navy board, composed of officers, instead of allowing the present 'pork barrel' methods to rule the defense levies," explained Mr. Lovejoy.

The Navy League issues a magazine, "Seven Seas," and through it convey their aspirations to members by affording them information on defense issues, with particular attention being given to the navy and its importance to the nation. The league also hopes to pave the way for more enlistments to both the army and navy, to create more patriotic sentiment to the American flag, and to have the navy and sailor respected more by the citizens in general," stated Mr. Lovejoy.

An active campaign will be undertaken in this city to obtain more members for the league among patriotic citizens who are anxious to their voices to the demands made by the league to raise more judicious expenditure of the nation's money on defense. The Navy League has been in existence for over fifty years and is at the present time the most powerful of the many so-called defense leagues, being founded not for any profit.

WELSH OUTPOINTED BY BENNY LEONARD
New York Generation Among Light-weights Sees Freddie Trimming—Results in Other Bout.

Benny Leonard outpointed Champion Freddie Welsh, after ten rounds of hard, fast and clean fighting at the Madison Square Garden last night, thereby putting himself in a position to demand a twenty round title mill with the champion.

Leonard won nine of the ten rounds, Welsh having a shade in the fifth. Leonard with his heavy wallop had the champion busy with his best duck and shifts to escape the rushes of the New York challenger. Twice Leonard rocked the champion with a left lead and a right cross and Welsh was compelled to hold with all his hanging on ability.

Champion Welsh meets Richie Mitchell at Milwaukee next Friday and a number of Janesville fans will follow the Milwaukee champion perform against the elusive Freddie.

At Green Bay last night two knockouts were scored, when Riddely stopped Sammy W. W. in the third round and Reed knocked out Young Wallace also in the third round. In the main bout Billy Perkins and Fritz Rudy fought a hard draw.

The machine bouts Ever Hammer and Ad. Wolgast fought a draw, and if anything the ex-champion had a shade over the Chicago "blonde tiger" in a slugging duel. Matty McCue outpointed McGovern of Chicago in the semi-windup.

At New York, Porky Flynn beat the old trail horse, Gunboat Smith, on Thursday night.

Last night at Minneapolis, Arthur Magill trimmed Alberts, scoring knockdowns in several rounds. Benny Palmer and Maurice Flynn fought in the semi-finals, Palmer scoring a point victory.

Jim Coffey, Frank Moran and Al. Reich are the opponents that will be picked to meet Fred Fulton in his invasion of New York to prove that he is worthy of a match with Jess Willard.

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a freshman and am considered quite pretty by the boys at high school. I go with one of the senior boys who seems quite friendly, but will not come to my home. The other day he asked if he could come out and I told him my address. He said he wouldn't come because it was too far. In a care-free manner I told him, "Oh, all right, the other boys don't think so." This seemed to make him angry. Did I do right?

Should I waste my time on him? How can I best make him like me?

SWEET LIPS.

was so very rude that you should not try to make him like you. Speak to him indignantly when you see him and in the future have nothing more to do with him. A boy will go a long way to see a girl if he cares much about being with her.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a high school boy, and there is a very nice girl in the same class, to whom I have taken a fancy. I wish to ask her to my birthday party, and I can't find any way which would be suitable for an invitation. I have never met her and that is why I ask you for information on that subject.

Since you both go to the same school you do not need an introduction. Go up to her when you see her at school and ask her.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is it all right for a girl of fourteen to ride a bicycle and kick a football?

DIMPLES.

Yes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am eighteen years old and am in love with two girls. One is in her sophomore year in high school and the other is in her sophomore year at college. The older one is seriously inclined and has no thoughts of the other boys but the younger is quite frivolous although she appeals immensely to me. Which one shall I choose?

PERKY.

The younger girl will probably become more serious as she grows older. Why not go with both of them since you are only eighteen.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) We are two boys, 16 and 18. Do you think it proper for us to take girls home after parties and entertainments at night?

(2) Is it all right for us to go out walking with the girls at night, or Sunday afternoons?

(3) How late should a boy stay out with a girl?

(4) When a boy wishes to take a girl home what should he say to her?

(5) Do you think it proper for boys and girls to play kissing games at parties?

READER AND HIS FRIEND.

(1) Of course, your age ought not spend much time with girls. You are too young. It would be all right to take them home from parties and entertainments once in a while, but it is all right for boys of eighteen to go walking with girls, but when they are not even that old they should not.

(2) Until ten or ten-thirty.

(3) I do not consider it proper for boys and girls to play kissing games. They are played by young people with a taste for the cheapest kind of amusement.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have golden hair and my chum has red hair. What color dresses would be come us? GRACE AND GOLDIE.

A light haired girl can usually wear pink, blue, green, brown and grey. A red haired girl finds it difficult to find colors becoming to her. She can wear brown very well and a dark brownish green; of the light shades blue and yellow are best.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: After going to a dance with one young man, is it rude to give another young man the first dance? HELEN.

Yes, it is rude.

Letters may be addressed to Wm. A. BRADY, M. D., in care of the Gazette

POISON IVY.

Some persons are immune to the skin irritation and inflammation caused by poison ivy. Some persons are more susceptible at one season of the year than at another, by reason of the varying amount of toxin in the plant.

Poison ivy (Rhus toxicodendron), and swamp sumach (Rhus venenata), and primrose are all capable of causing skin inflammation.

Poison ivy, also called poison oak, is a shrub from one to three feet high, or in some places it is a woody vine, with long, three-pointed leaves, dark, lustrous.

The skin irritation caused by poison ivy is characterized by great swelling and redness, blebs, and much itching. There may be pain in the abdomen, nausea or diarrhea. Sometimes fever and pains in the joints occur. The swelling and irritation extends over a large surface of the body, and perhaps invades the mucous membranes as well. It lasts for a week or more. It is followed by free desquamation or peeling of skin.

If the skin is thoroughly bathed with soap and hot water immediately after exposure the poisoning may be prevented. If just one spot has been touched by poison ivy it may be painted with tincture of iodine, but this will destroy the poison. But this would be obviously dangerous over a very large surface. If the skin is smeared with some fat or oil before going in the vicinity of poison ivy, that will protect against irritation. Since the irritant may remain in clothing it is well to change as soon as possible after exposure.

As a local application for the skin irritated or inflamed by poison ivy, compresses wet with a solution of about a pound of epsom salts in a gallon of water may be freely applied. This dressing may be kept up until the inflammation subsides. Then plain talcum powder is best.

The same treatment applies to primrose or sunburn poisoning.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Pyorrhea and intestinal indigestion.

1. Is it necessary to have a doctor or dentist administer the emetin treatment for pyorrhea? Can you tell me what causes intestinal indigestion and run-down condition? There is much flatulency and some pain at times. At night I often awake parched, burning sensation extending from the stomach up into the mouth.

Answer—1. Yes, the remedy must be given by hypodermic injections into the skin. But you may use a toothbrush or tooth paste of one percent. ipecac regularly at home.

2. One cause of such troubles, and a frequent cause, is pyorrhea, and a frequent cause, is pyorrhea.

Short of age. Are you more often subject to paralysis than women? If so, why?

Answer—Yes. Men more often poison their arteries with tobacco, alcohol and other excesses. Women are cleaner living and more sane than men.

There have appeared in this department from time to time articles or answers to correspondents about chilblains. Those interested, who ask for further information, should write, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope, and then make the criticism with our monograph upon the subject.

SIDE TALKS

RUTH GAMERON

FAULT-FINDING AT TABLE.

In a remarkable school for girls where the science of homemaking—not housekeeping—mind you, but the bigger, more beautiful science of homemaking—was taught, the girls are given a chance to practise the theories they learn in school, by living in groups in "home houses" managed by themselves.

Each girl in turn holds the position of homemaker for the little family. There are many rules to be observed by the groups and one of the most interesting is this:

"If there is individual dissatisfaction with meals or any other part of the housekeeping, it must be expressed in private to the homemaker. It must be the subject of conversation at the table."

Isn't that a fine rule?

Couldn't it lift a burden off your heart, homemaker, whenever, if that rule could be put into effect in your homes?

It Takes Mother's Appetite.

All Away.

To a sensitive woman there is nothing more depressing than to prepare a meal, bring it to the table, and then have it subjected to a running fire of criticism.

"Can't you get any tendered beef than that?" questions the father, irritably.

"This is the second time this week you've had carrots," complains the daughter.

"Why do you always have sour pickles?" growls the son. "You know I like sweet ones."

She rummages the pantry for a bottle of sweet pickles, and explains anxiously to her daughter that the greens the vegetable man brought weren't fit to eat and she had to substitute carrots. She hardly tastes her own dinner, doesn't seem to feel much appetite. As if anyone could have an appetite in such an atmosphere of criticism!

To sit at a table that will satisfy five or six different (and usually pampered) tastes is a mighty strenuous task.

And do it on a limited income, especially with the prevailing high prices for everything eatable, is enough to tax the resources of a homemaker genius. The woman who comes anywhere near succeeding deserves praise, not fault-finding. It is so easy to fall into the habit of fault-finding.

In many homes the fault-finding is just a habit. There is something about the act of finding fault that repeats itself in the mind. It is pleasant to put someone in the wrong and have him apologizing and explaining to you. And mothers, being the only human beings in the world who will stand patiently for that sort of thing, get ten times their share.

Of course there are occasions when criticisms could justly be made. But if, instead of irritably blurring them out at the table, the critic would wait until he could see the homemaker in private and then make the criticism pleasantly and combine it with constructive suggestions, who would be the loser? Nobody. And everyone would gain.

INITIALS OF CHILDREN.

SPELL OUT WORD MOTHER.

GINGLES' JINGLES

A LOYAL FRIEND.

He was to me a loyal friend, he truly put me wise; he said I was about the same as all the other guys, who think they can't and then they don't—a bunch of mutts indeed, who smoke their pipes of peace and say, it's rest not work I need. He said go play the baby act, sit down you big fat jay and kill an hour or two in dreams, before you hit the hay; you might get nervous if you work, or dozey in the dome, so while you're altogether guy, out in and waddle home. And tell your wifey what you've done, how sweat rolled down your brow, and how you worked and how you've drugged and how you're all in now, and she will stroke your noble nob and slip a boost to pop, and say, "You are some worker, dad, you don't know when to stop." Such dope as that goes home for keeps, with geezers such as these, who chuck their chances to make good, but listen now said he, the time has come for you to land, I know you can and should; he was, indeed, to me a loyal friend, he made me think I Lin K. Gingles could.

MARSHMALLOW CAKE.

Into a large cup break the whites of two eggs, beat with crested beater and fill with milk. Have in a mixing pan one and one-quarter cups flour, one cup sugar, two teaspoons baking powder. Mix and beat for five minutes, add one teaspoon of vanilla and bake this marshmallow cake in two layers. Marshmallow Filling: Three-quarters cup sugar, two tablespoons water, boiled until it spins a thread. Pour over the stiffly beaten white of egg, add six marshmallows cut in small pieces and beat until cold. Spread between layers and on top. Finish top with halved marshmallows.

OYSTER PIE.

A novel way to vary the serving of oysters is the "oyster pie." Line a deep pan with puff paste, allowing one-fourth cup shortening to one cup flour. Put in a layer of oysters, then a layer of partially cooked potatoes, cut in spices one-fourth inch thick; parsley, then another layer of oysters and potatoes and put on top crust. Roll crust thicker than for ordinary pies and bake thirty minutes or until nicely browned over top. This served with warm, slaw, bread and butter, furnishes practically your whole dinner and you will find it delicious. Take water the potatoes were cooked in, add oyster liquor, butter, salt and pepper; let boil and pour over the pie when served.

MOTH EXTERMINATOR.

Lupulin (flower of hops), one dram; Scotch snuff, two ounces; camphor (flake), one ounce; black pepper, one ounce; cedar sawdust, four ounces; mix thoroughly and strewn around. Put some in a paper among furs and woolens to be protected.

THE TABLE.

Soft Ginger Bread—One-half cup butter, one-half cup sugar, one cup molasses, one cup boiling water, 2½ cups flour, one teaspoon each of egg, spices (cinnamon and ginger), butter, sugar and molasses together and add one-half of the boiling water and then add flour, soda and rest of the boiling water, add eggs and spices.

Pure Whip—Whites of five eggs beaten stiffly, one cup granulated sugar, one dozen prunes (seeded and cut in pieces). After eggs are beaten stiff add sugar and beat, then add uncooked prunes. Bake about thirty minutes in a basin, which is put in pan of hot water to bake. When almost done place ground paper over the top to keep from burning.

Light Doughnuts—One cupful thick sour cream, 1½ cupfuls sour milk, two eggs, one cupful sugar, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon baking soda, one teaspoon cream tartar, nutmeg, taste, four drops lemon extract, flour to make a soft dough; beat eggs, add cream, milk sugar, salt, soda, cream of tartar, nutmeg, lemon, and beat the dough aside in a cool place for three hours; then roll out and cut with a cutter; fry in plenty of smoking hot oil; drain and sprinkle with sugar. The dough must be a soft one. They are very good.

Caramelized Tapioca—Two-thirds cup pearl tapioca, three cups water, cook over night, pinch of salt; in the morning add two cups dark brown sugar and steam one hour. Serve cold with plain or whipped cream.

Creamed Bacon—Break up crisply fried bacon into small pieces and mix with well seasoned cream sauce. Pour onto toast and sprinkle on minced parsley.

Apricot Salad—Place several halves of canned apricots on a lettuce leaf. Sprinkle chopped nuts or place peanut butter over each of each apricot. Serve with French dressing.

Fresh Apple Pudding—Pare the required number of apples; quarter them; cover bottom of dish with apples; pour over sugar, cinnamon, cinnamon to flavor; cover all with dumpling batter; bake or steam forty minutes. Sprinkle with butter, fine sugar. Serve warm with cream or sauce.

Oyster Pie—Line deep dish with puff paste; put in layer of partially cooked potatoes cut in one-fourth inch slices, then a layer of oysters; season with salt, pepper, butter and parsley; add another layer of potatoes and oysters and cover with top crust. Bake forty-five minutes or until nicely browned. Take water potatoes were cooked in, add oyster liquor, salt, pepper and butter; let come to boiling point and serve over pie.

MRS. GRACE R. DARLING
ACCEPTS NEW YORK POSITION.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Menomonee, Wis., April 1.—Mrs. Grace R. Darling, one of the best known educators of the northwestern United States, has accepted the position of English, home and social economics at the Stout Institute and will go to New York city.

Mrs. Darling was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1884, from Columbia University in 1892 and from the Wisconsin Library school in 1907. She taught history and literature at Oshkosh Normal school from 1884 to 1891 and in the Milwaukee Normal school from 1895 to 1903. She has been with the Stout Institute since 1908.

BRITISH SOCIAL LEADERS IN THE NEWS

Lady Evelyn King (left) and Miss Kathleen Tennant.

These young social leaders of London have both been mentioned in recent dispatches. Miss Kathleen Tennant is soon to become the bride of the young Marquis of Granby, the Duke of Rutland's heir. Lady Evelyn King, eldest daughter of the Earl and Countess of Lovelace, who has been hard at work as a nurse in a war hospital, is now spending a well earned holiday at Horsley Towers, the home of her father.

Kidnaped by MRS. EVA LEONARD

"Neil," called Olive Ellison from the machine as her friend came to the door in answer to the doctor's summons, "get on your wraps and come along. I believe we have a clue to the whereabouts of the baby due to last night."

In a very short time Neil and little Hal were seated in the automobile and they were speeding down the road.

"Tell me all about it," Neil exclaimed, leaning forward eagerly.

"About half an hour ago," began Olive, "Mr. Farrier, a farmer who lives about five miles from here, rang the doorbell. He asked if I was Mrs. Ellison and said that he had read a story in the paper, and had at once decided to come and tell us of a strange experience he had had the very day the baby was stolen. He overtook a woman walking and carrying a baby, when he was a mile from the cross roads where we found the buggy."

"Which way were they going?" asked Neil.

"Towards Judson's corners," she got out there and started east."

"How did he account for the fact that she was walking and carrying a heavy baby on a hot day like that?" asked Neil.

"He did not account for it," He said.

"How are you going to proceed with the search?" asked Neil.

"I shall comb this district with a fine toothed comb," he announced. "I shall call at every house and question every person I meet. Somebody would surely see her in the course of the afternoon, and she would have to stop for food and shelter by night. It seems to me we stand a very good chance of finding the woman."

"Whether she had our baby or not remains to be seen." The doctor's tone was cheerful. It was such a relief to have something definite to do to prosecute the search. He had spent the best part of two days in traveling aimlessly about, trying to light on some clue.

CHILD WELFARE CONGRESS
PROPOSED IN BUENOS AYRES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, April 1.—Arrangements are being made to hold the first American Congress of Child Welfare in Buenos Aires next July in commemoration of the centenary of Argentine independence. The program embraces sections on law, hygiene, psychology, assistance to mother and child, sociology and industrial legislation, and has been translated into English for the benefit of Americans who are not familiar with Spanish. The President of the Congress, Dr. Julieta Lanteri Renshaw, in a letter to the National Child Labor Committee, New York City, which is furthering the interest of the Congress in this country, says:

"Our Executive Committee is counting upon the presence of Americans interested in philanthropy and social work to discuss problems of child welfare. This international American Congress will serve as a new bond of union and fraternity among the nations of North and South America and the Executive Committee hopes for this reason that the meetings in Buenos Aires will be as impressive as possible."

The Congress is regarded by Harry E. Bard, Secretary of the Pan-American Society of the United States, as an unequalled opportunity for establishing closer social, intellectual and cultural relations with the other republics of America. "No subject could form a better basis for profitable discussion than the child," said Mr. Bard, "and I am particularly glad that the call for this Congress comes from Argentina as this will serve to bring to many of our people a better understanding of the progress made in improving the conditions of the child and the methods employed in that splendid country."

BEAUTIFYING OF FARM HOMES URGED IN STATE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., April 1.—The great interest which Wisconsin farmers are taking in beautifying their home grounds, described in a Wisconsin Bankers' farm bulletin issued today by Franz A. Aust, of the college of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin.

The bulletin states that beautiful home grounds do not require a fortune or increased incomes but rather the careful study in the arrangements of the objects such as houses, roads, walks, and other buildings. Farmers are advised to plant trees which are long-lived and permanent, vines near the house and other buildings, and perennial flowers on the lawn.

Warning is made against purchasing novel, gaudy plants. "Do not neglect the plants called 'common,'" states the bulletin. "They are more beautiful on the average home grounds than the foreign shrubs."

MANY PHASES CLOUD MILWAUKEE ELECTION

MANY ELEMENTS ENTERING IN TO MAYORALTY RACE MAKES RESULT EXTREMELY DOUBTFUL.

SITUATION IN STATE

Badger Republicans No Worse Off Than Their National Organization Says Milwaukee Correspondent.

By Ellis B. Usher.

Milwaukee, April 1.—The more the results of the Milwaukee primary election are discussed, and cussed, and dissected, the plainer it is that a great many things have fouled the race. Things that don't talk about, out loud, and other things they are afraid of. There are a lot of cowards around and about this city, and one of them is a set of "hell divers" in the house of representatives, who took "Bob" La Follette for their patten. The Milwaukee primary gave new emphasis to the hollow mockery of our so-called "non-partisan" politics in this city, and new emphasis also to the growing demoralization that is being wrought by the primary election, and the kind of things that we once heard such rosy orators. There isn't very much plain, understandable talk about it, but the facts are that in a light vote of 52,100 for mayor, "Bar" Harbo, the Socialist candidate, won, not 563 votes, while the combined opposition vote of Bading and Carney was only 23,737. Both were "non-partisans," but in reality one is a Republican and the other a Democrat of Irish lineage, and a Catholic.

There is no doubt whatever but that the race question, which the German-American alliance has so recently fomented, and the Catholic and anti-Catholic religious question both affected the local controversy, and as is usual in such politics, the unexpected happened. No one can predict what may occur when racial and religious prejudices are aroused, except that such questions always, measurably at least, neutralize each other. This seems to be the case in this case. The suggestion seems to be that voters of German blood divided between Harbo and Bading, yet Harbo gained in Bading territory, as compared with the vote of two years ago, though not all that Bading was short for the total vote fell off about 15 per cent. The situation offers a prospect for a hot fight with a great many doubtful factors. It is by no means certain that the vote that stayed at home will help Bading, if it comes out on election day, and it must be remembered that the year 1912 was elected by the Socialist vote at the primary was much increased on election day.

Plight of Republicans. In the state among the Republicans, there is to be measured somewhat by that described above, except that it is the Democrats, or better and broader, the Wilson men, who are putting all Republican calculations to crucial tests. Yet Wisconsin Republicans are worse off than their party nationally. They are afraid that nobody can be nominated but "Teddy" and they are afraid, with reason, that Wilson will beat him. Col. Harbo, in an editorial in the New York Times, says that the Republicans are just as badly off as was the old darkey at the time of the Charleston earthquake, when he said: "Come and help me, and I will come to you. I will not send you to the Philippines for delegates to Chicago had anyone but La Follette and his hand-picked bunch to go against them would have a hard job. For Leo Stern's ten German-American Alliance men "out of the 25,000" are not an element of real strength. Emil Buehler presumably has been chosen to go, for he has been prominent at German-American Alliance meetings, and he knows what they stand for. But, as it looks now, the Republican voters are going to have a hard dose whichever way they turn. So far as "Bob" goes, they know him in the east, even if some people at home are still inclined to take his sleep-walking seriously. The New York Times the other day remarked editorially that "the suzerainty of Wisconsin is ended." The North Dakota may have him.

Wisconsin is and has a right to be proud of her National guard. The feeling that this state ranks high among other states in any enterprise is always a matter of pride, and it is as it should be. But in this case at the present time it is a peculiar satisfaction to know that our Guardsmen are among the most efficient in this country. The Top 400 track company of local cavalry, owns its own mounts. By regular annual drill the young men of that organization have purchased horses which are the cream property of the company. I understand from a militia man that this is the exception rather than the rule among militia cavalry. It means, my informant tells me, that in case of active duty Troop 400 will be equipped with horses that know their riders and their business as well as the rider. None of the exciting and unusual conditions that are met on the service will be a handicap for these war horses. Think what it means. The racket of a bursting shell would stampede a whole regiment if it was mounted on "green" animals, whether the shell injured or not. In other words, a militia cavalry that is not prepared for active service with trained men, is in addition to trained men, is as useless as a rabble of followers on any battle field. Through the other branches of the guard a corresponding efficiency in matters which the civilian never hears of is rigidly maintained with a peace and with public opinion in its favor. I believe that our militia is the pacifists every one agrees that sort of a preparedness program is a disgrace to employers of labor, and it is a disgrace to allow their employees to be the state guard. I happen to know of one who discharged a faithful man who was called to his company during one of the threatened war periods. To my own satisfaction, also, I know that merchant and good customers because of this action. This is one case only. There are many like him. I do not know that the employers use force to drive their men into the militia, but I do urge that no obstacles be placed in the way of a patriotic citizen who wants to serve his country as a guardsman. I am convinced of the fact that employers who regard militia companies as a threat to their more or less district influences, and claim that the militia is just a social parasitic force for social purposes. Admittedly, the accusation, I maintain, is nevertheless, that he who hires a man who honestly desires to serve his country and who will undergo necessary training, whatever his social position, is not a good citizen.

Exercise Becoming Popular. A man by the name Milwaukee after on a recent murder of more than usual horror is interesting in connection with exercise and athletics. "Understand," said this lawyer, "that the accused is a man of vigorous physical health, an athlete of some ability and a keen sportsman. It is unusual for such mental depravity as this man confesses to accompany physical well-being of the type he possesses." This is not a new angle but it started me thinking of the trend, in this country, toward individual exercise. Men are no longer crazy to pay admission to professional athletes play baseball. Men and women are beginning to want to enjoy their exercise themselves, rather than by proxy. Walking, tennis, rowing, swimming, golf and a dozen other sports absorb the interests and attentions of Americans, young and old, more and more, because they themselves can enjoy them. History shows that when the individuals that compose a nation grow lazy and averse to physical exertion the nation itself deteriorates. This is, as I said above, not an original idea, but its present application is gratifying to thinking men, for the individual participation in physical recreation is a strong indication of the virility of this nation. It means that the United States will maintain its balance mentally because of the average physical robustness of its men and women.

Erie Lifts Embargo. The Erie freightment hauled to such good purpose that the road was again accepting freight for domestic eastern delivery within a few days after the absolute embargo on eastern freight which it was forced to declare. The tremendous volume of business that was coming in daily (in which Wisconsin played a large part) aroused the Erie traffic men to the necessity of successful efforts to raise the embargo. President Underwood is on a committee of railroad men who are conferring with the interstate commerce commission on the ways and means to prevent future situations of a similar nature for all railroads. Thus the Erie, the road best able to handle its share of the recent press of business, and that no small share, actually least affected, as its short embargo shows, is now leading a movement to do away with the conditions that have handicapped all the roads. In other words, competition makes business for the Erie.

IRISH ROMAN CATHOLICS BISHOPS URGE THRIFT IN IRELAND DURING LENT

(By Associated Press.)

Dublin, April 1.—The Irish Roman Catholic Bishops, in their Lenten pastoral letters, direct attention to the necessity for thrift and for raising as much foodstuffs as possible on the farms. There are frequent allusions to the war in the pastorals, the most emphatic exhortation to recruiting appearing in the letter of the Bishop of Tuam, Dr. Healy, who hopes that while the people will till their fields they will also be ready to fight for them against all comers, especially against the Germans. "Irishmen are able to fight," he writes, "as they have well proven on every battle front in Europe. They do not want their fertile acres seized by the foe. What is to save them but the strong arms and courageous hearts of the Irish people and their Allies?" He hopes that they will rally to the flag, "not by compulsion or coercion, but from a sense of duty as becomes free men."

Cardinal Logue speaks of the war as not only the greatest and most destructive war in history, but a war that seems to have stirred to their lowest depths the worst and most depraved of human passions. The distinction between soldier and civilian seems to be ignored. Even neutrals and their property are no longer immune from destruction. Successful citizens traveling by sea with their wives and children are sent to the bottom without warning. Men, of dand young, helpless women and innocent children, often in their beds at night, are made victims of a sudden and terrible death.

The Bishop of Limerick in his pastoral, predicts that the war will leave the world in a condition of direct poverty, and speaks of the storm which will break over European society when the war is over. "If anyone thinks," he says, "that the millions of working men trained to arms in the last war will settle down peacefully to help to reamass fortunes for their betters, he may have a rude awakening."

JAPANESE NAVY OFFICER TO INSPECT CONDITIONS OF BELLIGERENT NATIONS

Tokio, April 1.—Rear-Admiral S. Akizawa, director of the military affairs bureau at the navy department, has been ordered to proceed to Europe on the mission of inspecting the naval conditions of the belligerent countries. Afterward he will visit the United States. He will start on his mission March 20 by way of Siberia, accompanied by Commander K. Yamaguchi. This is the first Japanese naval mission to inspect the situation in the theatre of war. Talking of his assignment, Rear-Admiral Akizawa said: "The object lies in the inspection of military and technical affairs in the belligerent zone. My trip will cover about seven months. I shall first go to Russia and then visit England, France and Italy through Sweden. Thence I intend to go to the Balkans and also visit Egypt. Later I shall cross over to the United States and study naval affairs there before returning home. As to the activities of the German navy I expect to make a study of it from Sweden."

Rear-Admiral Akizawa is known as one of the ablest officers of the Japanese navy. His fame was established in the Russo-Japanese war when he was chief of staff of the combined squadrons under Admiral Togo. Commander Yamaguchi who accompanies Admiral Akizawa on the tour is also an able and promising officer. He rendered service in successfully conducting the joint operations of the Japanese and British fleets at Tsingtau, being chief of staff of Admiral Kato.

NATIONAL HIGHWAY WORK IN THE SOUTH

Jefferson Highway Association Starts Ball-Rolling for National Highway.

New Orleans, La., March 31.—In New Orleans on November 15 and 16 of last fall, after six months of systematic agitation, more than 400 good roads enthusiasts from eleven states west of the Mississippi river, met and organized the Jefferson Highway association. Now a ribbon of brick and concrete, gravel and rock is rapidly unrolling between Winnipeg, Canada and New Orleans, La., which latter city aspires to be known as the winter capital of America.

In less than six months of its official existence, the Jefferson highway has become second in importance among America's great new national highways. The Lincoln highway is naturally and rightfully given first place, connecting as it does, New York and San Francisco, and spanning the entire continent from east to west. The Jefferson highway, on the other hand, traverses the great agricultural center, and connects the Dominion of Canada at Winnipeg with the Gulf of Mexico at New Orleans. It crosses the rich agricultural states of Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, and Louisiana, with a possible branch through the Ozark mountains in Arkansas.

It crosses eight zones of climate and at every season of the year has a climate at some point along its route which is an attraction to tourists.

Pentrate Historic Territory. The Jefferson is justly entitled to the honor which the Jefferson highway is expected to confer upon his name. The great north and south highway traverses the Louisiana purchase territory with the exception of a short dip into Texas, made to provide a level route around the mountainous region of Arkansas. This diversion makes the Jefferson highway a farm land, level country route from beginning to end. A branch, which Arkansas is energetically building, will provide an opportunity for tourists, who so desire, to enjoy the delightful Ozark scenery, fishing and health resorts in western Arkansas.

Stretching from pine to palm, from snow to semi-tropic, the Jefferson highway has a 4,000-mile frontage on high agricultural land. Most of its frontage is in improved farms and will average in value close to $50 an acre. One might figure it out by the front foot for the whole 4,000 miles extent and discover a considerable value in real estate frontage on the great vacation route.

When the plans were first conceived for a new north and south highway to connect the eight or ten great American cities on and immediately west of the Mississippi river, it was expected that the movement would find disgruntled roads to begin with along the entire line of the proposed route. The trend of travel and of American highways has been westward from the beginning of our history. Such north and south travelers as there were in the early days used the "waterways". Tourists will be agreeably surprised to learn, however, that much north and south highway organization was found to be already accomplished. The previous work consisted of considerable stretches of organized road, as, for instance, the well known interstate trail from St. Paul to Kansas City, via Des Moines and St. Joseph.

The greater project was immediately rendered the united services of these smaller organizations and has harmoniously merged them into the one great national highway.

Southern States Raising Money. The actual work of graveling, rock-macadamizing, or surfacing with concrete is now being arranged for with surprising energy. Single counties in Texas and Louisiana have voted $300,000 and $400,000 bond issues. Counties and road districts in which it would not have been supposed that 10 per cent of the voters would approve of bond issues for building roads have won their bond issues easily because of enthusiasm for the Jefferson highway.

Louisiana has a road law providing for parish bond issues. Texas laws are all that could be asked and its nine counties on the Jefferson highway are in the front rank in improvement financing. Oklahoma amended its road law this winter for the very purpose of enabling it to hold the main line of the Jefferson highway and of the nine counties traversed in that state, eight already have signified their ability and intention of passing bond issues for the improvement of the Jefferson highway along with other roads in the same counties. The Jefferson highway gave them the necessary sort of enthusiasm.

OLD KENTUCKY FEUDS ARE NOT COMPARED WITH THOSE BETWEEN LUMBER JACKS.

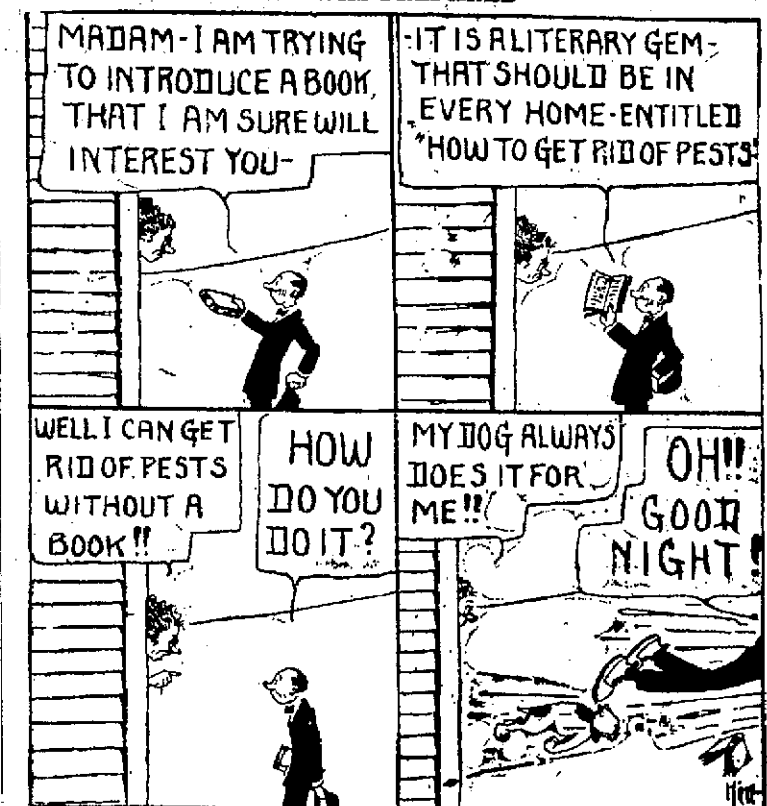

Marionette, Wis., April 1.—Rivalry among lumber camps over who hauled the record load of logs for the winter has developed into a fight which rivals the disputes among Kentucky clans.

The first big load was hauled near Florence and scaled 12,118 feet. Shortly after this a load near Escanaba went 14,400 feet of pine. This was claimed to be the largest load ever hauled in the Menominee river region but this was disputed by John Neilligan, former manager of the Fence River Logging company.

Neilligan tells of a load consisting of thirty-two pine logs scaling 24,000 feet which was drawn four miles on the Popple river by two horses. The teamster was Dean Ingram of Oconto, the scaler John Fitzpatrick of Marinette, and the camp foreman Hugh Cummings, of Oconto. Neilligan says this load was hauled in 1910 and never beaten.

Why We Sell Only The USL Storage Battery

The Triumph of the Machine Pasted Plate

For years the electric starting and lighting battery question has been one of the most serious things with which we have had to contend.

For if your starting and lighting battery doesn't work the $600 to $6000 you have invested in a motor car represents very little immediate value to you.

As dealers we have been bothered so much by the general worthlessness of inferior batteries and the constant trouble they cause, that we determined some time ago to look into the storage battery business very seriously.

A Message to Every Motor Car Owner

WE knew that in countless instances a perfectly good motor had been roughly abused for no other reason than that the battery wasn't doing its work properly and the owner didn't know it.

We knew that thousands of lamps had gone bad simply because the battery wasn't right.

We had heard generators called "no good" and spark plugs anathematized because the battery wouldn't do its work.

We had seen efficient starters condemned on account of poor battery service.

From long and exasperating experience we had learned of a host of other troubles—mean, elusive troubles—that were due wholly to inferior battery construction.

We Started to Find a Good Battery

So we determined to "see for ourselves." We determined to go right to the bottom of the battery business.

And we found out a lot—a whole lot!

After a long and painstaking search we found the battery we wanted—the new-type USL. We found a battery better than we had supposed existed.

It was brought forcibly to us that it is the inside of the battery that counts.

Any battery maker can give you dowelled and dovetailed boxes, lead coated terminals, etc. These are mere outside mechanical details.

But down in the box, where you can't see, in the plates and separators and grids, is where you must have real construction and superior materials if you are to get maximum power and continued efficiency.

Here is where USL leads the world. Its marvelous exclusive machine pasted plates, its specially prepared separators, its non-buckling grids, give it greater efficiency and longer life than any other starting and lighting battery ever built!

The Marvelous Machine Pasted Plate

We found at the USL factory the wonderful principle of machine pasting plates, which chemists have sought to apply for years, and which is now in use exclusively at the USL plant. A brief explanation may be interesting:

Chief among the difficulties experienced in the use of the old types of starting and lighting batteries are the buckling of plates due to inferior materials and faulty construction, and the rapid deterioration of the plates due not only to the above causes, but to an out of date method of combining what is known as the oxide paste with the grid to form the plate.

More than any other one factor this paste and its proper combination with the grid determine the life and service of a storage battery. Its action in connection with the acid solution liberates the power stored in the battery, and this power is great or little, and the life of the battery long or short, as the plate is good or bad.

If the plates are not compact, solid, homogenous, they will easily wash away or break down under shock, and the life of the battery will be only one month, two months, or six months, as the case may be.

The Old Method of Construction

Briefly, and without going into obscure technicalities, the common method of making battery plates is to "hand-paste" them. The workman rubs the oxide paste (which "sets" very quickly) into the grid by hand, on one side, and then turns it over and rubs in the other side. One side "sets" before the other can be rubbed in, and the result is an imperfectly welded plate, full of flaws and weak spots, which gives a most unsatisfactory flow of current, washes away easily, is easily broken down, and is, therefore, the cause of the rapid deterioration you may have noticed in your battery.

At the USL plant we found the secret of the satisfactory service and wonderfully long life of USL batteries. Note the difference:

Mechanically Pasted Plates

New-type USL plates are machine pasted. The uncertain hand work has been done away with. The plates are placed in an ingenious machine and the paste is quickly pressed in from both sides at once. It sets as a mass, and the result is a compact, solid plate, equal in density all the way through. This plate wears evenly, gives off a constant and steady flow of power, does not wash away, does not crumble with vibration or road shock, and therefore lasts longer than any other starting battery plate ever made.

This seemingly simple, though really wonderful principle of construction is the result of years of chemical and mechanical research. It is difficult to explain it in non-technical terms, but we want you to try one of these batteries. If you do you will never use any other.

Rightly Built and Closely Inspected

USL batteries possess many points of superiority aside from these wonderful machine pasted plates. They are the most carefully built and closely inspected batteries made in the world.

The boxes are sturdily constructed. The jars are made of a superior grade of rubber, and before installation are tested far beyond any shock or strain they will ever get in normal service. An exclusive vent and expansion chamber prevent loss of acid solution. The terminals are strong and well-made, and all metal parts, even to the handles, are lead coated to prevent corrosion.

And one of the most important features of USL construction is an ingenious method of grid casting which absolutely prevents plate buckling under any normal service.

Sixteen years of battery building have taught the U S Light & Heat Corporation how to build USL batteries right.

And Positively Guaranteed

We can give the most generous guarantee and free service inspection we have ever known with USL batteries. Every USL is guaranteed for fifteen months on a definitely specified dollars and cents adjustment basis. You get what you pay for and know each month just what your adjustment will be, should your USL battery fail. And there is no limit placed on the free inspection service. You get it at any time and as often as you may require it.

We want all of our old customers, and all users who read this, to try a USL battery on our recommendation. We know what they are. There are also nearly a thousand great business concerns using them who know what they are. Practically every railroad company in the United States uses USL batteries. Great telephone companies, signal concerns, vehicle manufacturers, automobile companies here and abroad, install USL batteries because of the wonderful lasting qualities of the marvelous machine pasted plates.

Come in and see us before you buy a new battery. We will show you a revelation in starting and lighting batteries.

New-type USL batteries are built to fit any gasoline or electric pleasure car or truck made.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—There Is a Pleasant Surprise in Store for Father Besides

BY F. LEIPZIGER

INSIDE THE LINES

By EARL DERR BIGGERS
AND
ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE
Founded on Earl Derr Biggers' Play of the Same Name

Capper shook his head doggedly. "I'm not drunk, General Crandall. I'm so broke I couldn't get drunk if I would. So help me, I'm telling God's truth. I got it straight—Capper checked his cards and words, and did some rapid thinking. How much did he dare reveal? In Alexandria, General—got it there—from the inside, sir. Koch is the head of the Wilhelmstrasse crowd there in the Coolidge Hotel in Bangkok; he engineered the trick. The wildest dreams of the Wilhelmstrasse have come true. They've got a man in your signal tower, General—your signal tower!"

General Crandall, in whom incredulity was beginning to give way to the first faint glimmerings of conviction as to the possibility of truth in the informer's tale, rallied himself nervously to combat an asperion cast on a British officer.

"Suppose the Germans have a spy in my signal tower anywhere here," he began argumentatively. "Suppose they learn every nook and corner of the Rock—have the caliber and range of every gun in our defense, they could capture Gibraltar in a thousand years."

"I don't know what they want," Capper returned, with the injured air of a man whose worth falls of recognition. "I only came to warn you that your Captain Woodhouse is taking orders from Berlin."

"Come—come, man! Give me some proof to back up this cock-and-bull story," General Crandall snapped. He had risen, and was pacing nervously back and forth.

"Capper was secretly elated at this sign that his story had struck home. He smiled, and tried to bring his voice to the normal."

"Here it is, General—all I've got of the story. The real Woodhouse comes down from somewhere up to the North Pole, and puts up for the night in Alexandria. No friends in the town, you know; nowhere to visit. Three Wilhelmstrasse fellows, headed by that clever devil Koch, or Koch, who calls himself a doctor now. Somehow they got hold of the real Woodhouse and do for him what I don't know—probably kill the poor devil."

"General, I saw with my own eyes an unconscious British officer being carried away from Koch's house in Ramleh in an automobile—two men with him." Capper fixed his gaze with a lean index finger dramatically. "And I saw the man you just this morning received as Captain Woodhouse leave Doctor Koch's house five minutes after that poor devil—the real Woodhouse—had been carried off. That's the reason I took the same boat with him to Gibraltar. General Crandall, because I'm loyal and I want my duty to warn you."

"Incredible!" "One thing more, General," Capper was sorely tempted, but for the minute his wholesome fear of consequences curbed his tongue. "Woodhouse isn't working alone on the Rock; you can be sure of that. He's got friends to help him turn whatever trick he's after—maybe in this very house. They're clever people, you can mark that down on your slate!"

"Ridiculous!" The keeper of the Rock was fighting not to believe now. "Why, I tell you if they had a hundred of their spies inside the lines—if they knew the Rock as well as I do they could never take it."

Capper rose wearily, the air of a misunderstood man on him.

"Perhaps they aren't trying to capture it. I know nothing about that. Well—I've done my duty—as an Englishman to another. I hope I've told you in time. I'll be going now."

General Crandall swung on him sharply. "Where are you going?" he demanded.

Capper shrugged his shoulders hopelessly. Now was the minute he'd been counting on—the peeling of cracking notes from a fat bundle, the handsome words of appreciation. Surely General Crandall was ripe.

"Well, General, frankly—I'm broke. Haven't a shilling to bless myself with. I thought perhaps—Capper shot a keen glance at the older man's face, which was partly turned from him. The general appeared to be pondering. He turned abruptly on the spot.

"A few drinks and you might talk," he challenged.

Capper grinned deprecatingly. "I don't know. General—I might," he murmured. "I've been away from the drink so long that—"

"Where do you want to go?" General Crandall cut him off. "Of course, you don't want to stay here indefinitely."

"Well—if I had a bit of money—they tell me everybody's broke in Paris. Millions and millions—everybody, you know. You can get a room at the Elitz for the asking. That would be heaven to me—if I had something in my pocket."

"You want to go to Paris, eh?" General Crandall stepped closer to Capper, and his eyes narrowed in scorn. "If it could be arranged, yes, General. Capper was spinning the dream of his bowler becoming nervous fingers. He did not dare meet the other's glance.

"Denmit, Capper! You come here to blackmail me! I've met your kind before. I know how to deal with your ilk."

"So help me, General, I came here to tell you the truth. I want to go to Paris—or anywhere away from here! I'll admit that. But that had nothing to do with my coming all the way here from Alexandria—spending my last guinea on a steamer ticket—to warn you of your danger. I'm an Englishman and loyal! Capper was pleading now. All hope of reward had faded, and the victory of a call was subsequent investigations into his own record appalled him. General Crandall sat down at his desk and began to write.

"I don't know—at any rate, I can't have you talking around here. You're going to Paris."

Capper dropped his hat. At a tap of the bell, Jaimih Khan appeared at the door, and he might have said he was right behind them the time. General Crandall directed that his orderly be summoned. When the subaltern appeared, the general handed him a sealed note.

"Orderly, turn this gentleman over to Sergeant Crosby at once," he commanded, "and give the sergeant this note." Then to Capper: "You will come to Alexandria where you will be put on a train for Madrid. You will have a ticket for Paris and twenty shillings for expense en route. You will be allowed to talk to no one alone before you leave."

"No circumstances will you be allowed to return—not while I am governor-general, at least."

Capper, his face alight with new-found joy, turned out with the orderly. He paused at the doorway to frame a speech of thanks, but General Crandall's back was toward him. "Good night," he signed in rapture, and the doors closed behind him.

CHAPTER XII
Her Country's Example.

"Do you know, my dear Cynthia Maxwell is simply going to die with envy when she sees me in this!"

The plump little mistress of Government House, standing before a full-length mirror, surveyed her reflection with intense satisfaction. Her arms and neck burst startlingly from the clinging sheath of the incomparable Douillet gown that was the pride of her wardrobe.

"Poor Cynthia; my heart goes out to her," she murmured. "Oh, it needn't! Lady Crandall answered, with a tilting of her strictly low, style nose. The Maxwell person has been blest more than once here on the Rock with the gift of a fond mama sends her from Paris. But, honestly, isn't this a bit low for a staid middle-aged person like me?"

"I'm afraid I'll have trouble getting my precious Douillet past the censor," Lady Crandall plumed herself with secret joy.

Jane looked up, puzzled. "Oh, that's old Lady Porter—a perfect dragon, the general's wife rattled on. Poor old dear; she thinks the Lord put her on the Rock for a purpose. Her own collar gets higher and higher. I believe if she ever was presented to society she'd emulate the old Scotch lady who followed the law of decolette, but preserved her self-respect by wearing a red flannel chest protector. You must meet her."

"I'm afraid I won't have time to get a look at your dragon, my dear, with a little laugh, all happiness. "Now that Sir George has promised me I can sail on the Saxonia Friday."

"You really must—" The envious eyes of Lady Crandall fell on the pile of plans—potent Delphic mysteries to charm the heart of woman—that lay scattered about upon the floor.

Jane sat back on her heels and surveyed the melting folds of satin with an artist's eye.

"If you only knew—what it means to me to get back with my baskets full of French beauties! Why, when I screwed up my courage and went ago to go to old Hildebrand and ask him to send me abroad as his buyer I've been studying drawing and French at night for three years in preparation for this!"

"The dear old lion is as good as dead, too young. But I cooed and pleaded, and at last he said I could come—on trial, and so—"

"He'll like a pussy-cat when you get back," Lady Crandall put in with a pat on the brown head at her knees.

"Maybe. If I can slip into New York with my little baskets while all the other buyers are busy, I can nab a few things for money to go home or asking their firms to send a warship to fetch them—why, I guess the general's mine all right."

The eternal feminine, too strong in Jane's transplanted stock, prompted a mischievous question:

"Then you won't be leaving somebody behind when you sail—somebody who seemed awfully nice and—foreign and all that? All our American girls find the moonlight over on this side infectious. Witness me—a flustering trip abroad after school days and see where I've finished—on a rock!"

Laughter. A shrewd downward sweep of her eye was just in time to catch a flush mounting to Jane's cheeks.

"Well, a mysterious stranger has crossed my path," Jane admitted. "He was very nice, but mysterious. He said, 'Oh! A delightful gurgling from the older woman. "Tell me all about it—a secret for these ancient walls to hear."

"I was about to reply when second thought checked her tongue. Before her flashed that strange meeting with Captain Woodhouse the night before—his denial of their former meeting—followed by his curious insistence on her keeping faith with him by not revealing the fact of their acquaintance. She had promised—why she had promised she could no more do that than the reason for his asking: but a promise it was that she would not betray his confidence. More than once since that minute in the reception room of the Hotel Splendide Jane from now say. Rather important. You'll be here. Thank you."

General Crandall sat at his desk and tried to bring himself down to the routine crying from the accumulated papers there. But the canker Billy Capper had implanted in his mind would not give him peace. Major-general Crandall was a man cast in the mold of a British mold; of army discipline and tradition of the service had given to his conservatism a hard grain. In common with most of those high commands he held to the belief that nothing existed—nothing could exist—which was not down in the regulations of the war office, made and provided. For upwards of twenty-five years he had played a hard game of the service—in Egypt, in Burma, on the broiling rocks of Aden, and here, at last, on the key to the Mediterranean. During all those years he had faithfully pursued his duty, had stowed away in his mind the wisdom disseminated in blue-bound books by that corporate paragon of knowledge at home, the war office. But never had he been so baffled as he was now. He was a place or thing called the Wilhelmstrasse, reputed by the scribblers to be the darkest closet and the most potent of all the secret chambers of diplomacy. The regulations made no mention of a Wilhelmstrasse, even though they provided the brand of pipe clay that should brighten the men's hats, the touch of her ex-cuse. She dropped the shawl from her shoulders and slipped into a kimono.

"You're very comforting," Lady Crandall beamed. Her maid knocked and entered on the lady's crisp: "The general wishes to see you, Lady Crandall, in the library."

"Tell the general I'm in the midst of trying on—" Lady Crandall bowed, the better of her excuse. She dropped the shawl from her shoulders and slipped into a kimono.

A CHARMING DUTCH COLONIAL COTTAGE HOME OF CHARACTER NO. 185

It is impossible in so small a space to show how, by careful planning, the grounds set off this charming cottage which overlooks the waters of one of the greater lakes. A study of the floor space below will convince you that here indeed is a maximum of comfort and convenience without any sacrifice of space or artistic arrangement.

Twenty-four-inch shingles are used on the exterior of this cottage, which, together with the tight shingle barge and simple treatment, accentuate the old-fashioned colonial design. The wide porch extends across the entire front of the house and the large kitchen porch is inclosed in lattice, making an out-of-door kitchen for the warm months.

The living room and library make practically one room, and the dining room also opens into the living room with a wide arch. The kitchen and dining room are connected by a service pantry, and the breakfast room or porch makes an attractive feature. The second floor contains three bedrooms, bath and a large sleeping porch; no attic, but basement under main rooms.

This house, 36x27 feet, was built complete, except furnace, for a little under $3000. A furnace would cost about $100 more. It should be duplicated for the same sum.

Any Gazette reader who desires further information concerning No. 185 should address "Homes of Character Dept.," the Gazette. There will be no charge for answers.

LOOK BEFORE YOU BUILD

Building a home is not like the things you do every day and are thoroughly familiar with. Very few build more than one home in a lifetime.

For this reason you should consider all details carefully. We can not impress too forcibly the importance of carefully planned lighting.

Before you build, have us send one of our experts to help you plan an artistic, healthful and comfortable giving gas lighting system.
